SENIOR CLASS OF PACIFIC COLLEGE

PACIFIC COLLEGE COMMENCEMENT

Other affairs are sometimes referred to as being among the big events of the year, but the one biggest event took place at Wood-Mar Hall last Wednesday morning. In spite of anxious forebodings to the contrary it did not rain, and many friends and relatives gathered to do honor to the members of the graduating class. The ushers were kept busy carrying the floral offerings to the stage, where they soon formed a bank of roses, ferns, pansies and sweet peas. The audience listened to the following excellently rendered program:

Invocation..... Rev. Gould
Serenade..... Rachmaninoff
Mazurka..... Liadow
Garden Song..... Hayden Wood
Address..... Katherine Romig
I Am Longin' fo' You... Jane Hathaway
Presentation of Diplomas..... Katherine Romig Benediction..... Pres. Pennington.
Rev. C. O. Whitely.

Dr. Mason's address was on a practical subject, "Efficiency in Education." He said that it might be briefly comprehended in Christ's words, "Thou shalt love the Lord thy God with all thy heart, and with all thy soul, and with all thy strength, and with all thy mind, and thy neighbor as thyself." He took it up under the various headings—we are not really efficiently educated until our bodies are of use to God, and for that reason we must preserve health, we must think for God, we must have our emotions under control that we may lay them on the altar; we must keep our spiritual selves at His command, and we must be altruistic. Education is, after all, merely the culture of personality.

Before presenting the diplomas President Pennington announced that the $25 junior prize had been awarded to Miss Myrtle Thomas and that the senior honors went to Miss Eva Campbell.

Class roll—T. Arthur Benson, Eva M. Campbell, Rose Gladys Hannon, Harry H. Haworth, Lisle Hubbard, Florence Kaufman, W. Ellis Pickett, Walter H. Wilson.

CLASS DAY, MONDAY, JUNE 7

As usual, the class day exercises came off on Monday, June 7. Miss R. Gladys Hannon glibly introduced the individual members of the class and told of their glory.

The second number of the program was the showing of pictures on the screen. For the most part these were of the seniors in their past and present, and some slight changes were noted for better or worse. Some of the most consistent "fussers" also suffered small "bowl outs," but nothing serious resulted.

The pictures were followed by scenes on the carpet. The Profs. were represented by members of the senior class. The most real and natural were Mrs. Hodgkin, by R. Gladys, and Pres. Pennington, by Walter H. Another very touching number was rendered by Lyle Hubbard in the form of an oration. We now understand why our friend Pete has been spending so many weary hours in the stack room, but he will no doubt feel more free of mind since it is over with. It sounded altogether unnatural to hear Pete slinging slams at random. The oration also struck at the fussers, chiding H. E. H. for his twelve nights in succession, C. J. for his Helen, Rep. for consistency, etc. The crisis of slams came in a number called "A Monologue," representing Mr. Floyd E. making a date from Hodson's, which was exactly true to life.

Near the close of the program the old bear from Hodson's place put in an appearance. He has evidently been on a long journey, for he has not been seen in these "diggings" for several years. Perhaps Captain Benson should have the credit for sending him away.

The usual conclusion of presenting cap and gown, reading of class roll followed. The only real excitement resulting from program was the expression of a certain faculty member: "Any one who will come into a fellow's room when it's locked to keep them out, will suck eggs."

Friday, June 4, the Sophomore class of the college took the seniors on a picnic up the river.

PACIFIC ACADEMY CLASS GRADUATES

Tuesday afternoon, June 8th, occurred the commencement exercises of the academy department. The program was as follows:

Invocation..... Rev. Chas. O. Whitely
Music..... Mrs. O. K. Edwards
Address..... Rev. Homer L. Cox
Music..... Mr. Roy B. Lyle
Presentation of diplomas.....
President L. T. Pennington

Mr. Cox in his address dwelt upon the two periods into which every life is divided—the irreparable past and the available future. He pointed out the great opportunities of youth, because of the courage and ability to make great sacrifices; love and service are measured by sacrifice. If we want our lives to be eloquent in the future, we must see to it that we are daily what we ought to be; what we say may soon be forgotten, but the atmosphere created by personality is eternal. In closing he congratulated the class on the influence under which they had lived, and on the future that is yet to be solved. He also expressed the desire for them that the future may bring joy and satisfaction as they look back over the irreparable past.

At the presentation of the diplomas President Pennington announced that the scholarship had been awarded to Willard Wiley, he having received the highest honors of the class.

Another class has graduated and gone from our midst. To say that they will be missed is but stating it very mildly for when we consider that classes record in school it is very apparent that there was not much "doing" which they did not have a part in, however we are sure that this tendency to do things will win for them positions of honor in the work a day world and thus bring yet greater honors to our beloved Pacific.

September thirteenth. That is the date for you to remember. Don't just merely remember it tell somebody else about it also. If you know anybody who ought to be at Pacific next year go right after them and keep on going until they come. Next year is going to be the best yet and they can not afford to miss it. Don't fail to bring somebody and several of them if possible, back to school with you next fall. September thirteenth.

One more year of school is completed. For some of us this must mean our last year at Pacific, for others it means merely a recess between school years but whatever the individual meaning may be with regard to our school life, it does mean for each one of us an opportunity to demonstrate the value received by us from our school. Our Alma Mater will be judged and judged critically this summer by many whose only opportunity to form an opinion will be by considering us as students, our actions and attitudes toward the various phases of life which we will come in contact with. So whatever we do and where ever we are during these coming months we must remember who we are, what we represent and act accordingly.

Esther Welch who attended college last year, is here this week visiting with her sister, Henrietta, who graduated from the academy this year.

ALUMNI BANQUET

The annual banquet of the Alumni Association of Pacific College was held in the basement of the Friends Church, June 9, at eight o'clock. The attendance was as good as usual, there being about forty members present, beside guests. After an excellent four course dinner, the toast program was the order of the evening. Dr. T. W. Hester, of the class of '98, was toastmaster. Miss Laura Hammer, of the class of 1911, welcomed the class, and Walter H. Wilson, of the class of 1915 responded, expressing the wish of his class that they might be good loyal alumni. Toasts were responded to by Prof. A. C. Stanbrough and Prof. Walter E. Spahr. Prof. Stanbrough's plea for a fuller attendance at the annual meetings of the association was very timely. He proposed to insure that his own class would have one hundred per cent attendance, provided the other classes would do as well next year. Prof. R. W. Lewis, president of the association, spoke at the close of the program of the need of help by the college of every member of the Alumni Association, and urged that we all look forward to greater things in the future, both for the college, and for ourselves. The whole of the toast program was permeated with a feeling of earnest solicitude for the school for which the association stands.

DEPARTMENT OF MUSIC GIVES RECITAL

One of the most enjoyable features of the Commencement festivities for music lovers was the recital given Saturday evening, June fifth by the Faculty of Music. The program was one of delightful variation comprising several numbers for the two pianos, vocal, 'cello, and piano solos. Each number revealed the skill in artistic interpretation of the performer.

The program was rendered.

RECEPTION FOR SENIORS

Saturday evening, May 29th, the Annual Christian Association reception for the graduating class, was held in the dormitory parlors, at which function sixty or sixty-five students and faculty members were present. At the head of the receiving line stood the presidents of the associations, Mr. Paul Lewis and Miss Lyra Miles, followed by the guests of honor, the members of the senior class.

A pleasing program was given consisting of music and "talks"; Lyra Miles gave a piano number and Ledreu Williams, a greatly appreciated vocal solo; Paul Lewis talked on "Tides"—and whirlwinds; Prof. McMinn representing the faculty talked of three kinds of stock, found in every school, the common, the preferred and the watered; the program was concluded by Arthur Benson who spoke on behalf of the class. Light refreshments were served.

A certain school, more or less well known at Pacific, either by personal acquaintance or hearsay, has published the following list of freshman precedents for sophomore consideration:

1. Green hats are to be the inseparable companions of their owners during the first semester, and on all public occasions thereafter, till the junior-freshman frolic, when they will be burned (in effigy).
2. Freshmen must suset the sidewalks—keep off the grass.
3. Freshmen must follow all other classes in leaving daily chapel exercises.
4. Freshmen must answer the telephone.
5. Freshmen must tote suitcases for all athletic teams.

6. Freshmen must pay due respect to seniors on all occasions.

The College Board announces that the resignation of Professor Walter Spahr, of the department of History and English, has been received and accepted. It is understood that Professor Spahr has accepted a position in the High School at Indianapolis, Indiana, for the coming year.

On behalf of the Crescent Staff the Editor wishes to express regret that this the Commencement issue of the Crescent is so late in publication but on account of its being held up at the printing office the delay could not be avoided.

LOCAL AND PERSONAL ITEMS

Lesta Cook was down from Portland visiting with a former school friends.

Lola Bullard who was a resident of Canyon Hall during part of the semester, but has been working in Salem, returned last week, and has been visiting with friends in town.

Fallay Rassmussen of the class of 1911, spent the week with friends in Newberg. Several other members of the Alumni were also in town for the closing exercises of the college.

Jennie DeBord, a former student of Pacific College, who has been teaching school the past year, visited with friends during the week and attended the commencement exercises.

Mrs. Kenworthy, of Richmond, Indiana, visited with her daughter, Miss Mary Kenworthy, who has been teaching in Pacific for the past two years. From here they will go to San Francisco to take in the exposition.

Prof. Harold D. Marshall left Friday, June 4, for San Francisco where he expects to meet his mother. Prof. Marshall intends to attend the University of California next year. He will be greatly missed by both faculty and students.

THE ALUMNI PUBLIC MEETING

The college alumni gave a varied program, consisting of music and short addresses at their public meeting on Tuesday evening, June 8. The musical numbers were excellent and very much appreciated. These were interspersed with interesting talks by prominent members of the association. Prof. Stanbrough, of the Newberg public schools, spoke on "The Opportunities of the Teacher." He pointed out the fact that every age seems to be the all important period, for it has some great problem that must be solved. It is always the trained mind that furnishes the solution. History has repeatedly borne this out. Thus the great problems of the near future must be solved by those who today are being trained by the teachers in our public schools. They are of necessity doing much which was originally the work of the home, and consequently are fundamentally responsible for the development of character. So the opportunity of the teacher is to mold, not only the lives of individuals, but as these constitute the nation, also to direct national life.

Prof. Russell Lewis, president of the association, spoke of "What the Alumni Are Doing." As a matter of casual interest he mentioned that 60 per cent of Pacific's graduates are married and none are divorced. The specific occupations and number engaged in them are: Teachers, 36; business men, 18; housekeepers, 20; strictly religious work, 5; students, 5; attorneys, 5; salesmen, 2; farmers, 15; real estate dealers, 4; doctors, 6; librarians, 2; postmasters, 1; engineers, 3; public officers, 22; book-keepers or stenographers, 4; bankers, 5.

ALUMNI ARE DEFEATED

True to custom the alumni turned out strong on Commencement Monday and with the avowed intention of taking "the youngsters" down a notch, exhibited various degrees of ball playing ability. But to their chagrin the youngsters "slipped one over on them," so to speak, and came off with the bigger end of the score.

It was a ball game, though, from start to finish, and although the college team was in the lead most of the time, not for a moment was the game a "cut and dried sure thing."

Not having put out a ball team this year and several of the fellows putting on a glove for the first time this spring, gave the alumni a quite marked advantage over the school boys, but nevertheless the boys held their own.

Evidently "Rusty" Haworth has been shying strawberries at everything on the ranch for the way he put things on the ball for 10 innings was a wonder to see but "Topsy" Guyer, for the varsity nine scored his equal and if anything a little better, holding the alumni, with exceptions, quite decidedly at his mercy.

At the end of nine innings the score stood 7 to 7 in the first of the tenth the alumni scored once but the boys came back strong slamed Haworth's offerings out into the farthestmost parts of the "garden" and annexed two runs making the final score 8 to 9 in the college's favor.

The line-up was:

Alumni—Vestal, c; Haworth, p; Langworthy, ss; George, 1b; Stanbrough, 2b; Wilson, 3b; Reese, r. f.; Parrot, c. f.; Coulson, l. f.

College—Replogle, c; Gayer, p; P. Elliott, Colcord, ss; M. Elliott, 1b; D. Butt, 2b; Hinshaw, 3b; Thompson, r. f.; Wiley, c. f.; Newhouse, l. f.

Prof. Launer, Umpire.

We are very sorry indeed to loss him and the others of our Faculty members who are leaving, for they will be missed by all who have had the privilege of of acquaintance with them, however we all combine in wishing them the best of success in the other work they have chosen.

REV. STANNARD ADDRESSES CHRISTIAN ASSOCIATIONS

At the evening service on Baccalaureate Sunday Rev. Stannard, of Newberg, spoke to the members of the Young Men's and Young Women's Christian Associations on the responsibility of service which rests upon the young people of the present day.
He pointed out that the greatest value of school work lies in the disciplinary training received, the special privilege of an education under Christian influence in a school founded and maintained with prayer and sacrifice. Much is demanded of the student because much has been received.
Great Christian leaders are wanted to solve the great world problems of anarchy, intemperance, international relationship and of missions. Every student should have his heart set upon great things and strive with all of his power to accomplish them.

THE BACCALAUREATE SERMON

At the Friends church Sunday morning, June 6, President Pennington preached the baccalaureate sermon for the college and academy graduating classes. He used as his text, "Whatsoever a man soweth that shall he also reap," emphasizing the fact that every man is sowing either good or evil seed and sooner or later he, with the aid of others, must reap the harvest. The harvest is always the same as the seed that was sown, but likewise always more abundant. Thus it behooves every individual to be careful of the seed sown in life.

Special music for the service was supplied by Prof. Alexander Hull, who sang a solo, and a mixed quartet, composed of Profs. Lewis and Spahr, Mrs. C.
O. Whitely and Miss Eunice Lewis.

FACULTY RECEPTION TO SENIORS

President. and Mrs. Pennington entertained at their home in

Secretary, Y. M. C. A., stood in the receiving line.

The academy students were received from 3 to 9, and the college students from 9 to 10. Several members of the college board were also present.
