Pacific Meets Willamette November 7

With but a minute and twenty seconds of play remaining, Colcord, in a sensational 95-yard run, scored the single touchdown for Pacific against Willamette on the University field. In the effort to make more rapid advancement in the few remaining minutes of play, the opposing teams had resorted to frequent punting. Colcord, catching Willamette's punt five yards directly in front of the goal, left a trail of spilled university men for the first 20 yards, easily outdistanced all who would pursue and placed the ball between the opponents' goal posts.

It was evident from the start that the Methodists had the advantage in weight. One touchdown in each of the first three-quarters was won by sheer line pounding, with a forward pass successful occasionally. The Quakers, however, showed better speed in the back field than their opponents. Hinshaw, at left half, while the lightest man on the team, made good on right end plays. Replogle, at full back, was probably the most consistent ground-gainer. It was usually Willamette's secondary defense that stopped him.

Captain Benson received a bad jolt during the first quarter, and while he was not taken out of the game, the accident was responsible for a diminution of the usual "pep" he inspires in his men throughout the game.

The game, as a whole, was successful from the spectators' standpoint. It was unusually free from loose playing and the usual harangue over rules and decisions, and evidenced the best of feeling between the teams.

While the college men received the small end of a 19 to 7 score, they felt that they had received a square deal—"good measure, pressed down and shaken together and running over."

On Thursday, November 5, we had a chapel talk, in which we were given admonition as regards behavior in chapel—less whispering and more attention to the matter in hand. Those in the sophomore row felt they must whisper. Why? Because they

ent they are stopping with the groom's parents, but contemplate moving to Salem in the near future. Mr. Vestal quit school a few weeks ago, making the excuse that he had a job in Salem. This explains the necessity for a job. We extend to Mr. and Mrs. Vestal wishes for a happy and prosperous life.

Farewell Reception to J. C. Hodson and Family.

In the Friends church Tuesday evening, November 10, a farewell reception was tendered Mr. and Mrs. J. C. Hodson and family, who are leaving Newberg to make their home in Fountain City, Indiana.

Mr. Hodson is a pioneer New-this family was brought out in speeches by Rev. Chas. O. Whiteley, pastor of Friends church; Aaron Bray, representing Oregon Yearly Meeting; Pres. L. T. Pennington, Sabbath School; Frank Baird, City Council; Mrs. Louisa P. Round, W. C. T. U., and E. H. Woodward, College Board.

The college students will keenly miss Mr. and Mrs. Hodson, for in them they have found valuable friends.

Olin C. Hadley, Alumnus of P. C., Speaks in Chapel.

Olin C. Hadley, '14, who is now a field worker of the American Sunday School Union, spoke in chapel November 3 on the union, its history and his particular work. He emphasized the fact that there is a large percentage of our country communities that have no religious service of any nature, and much of Young America is growing up without any Christian teaching. The work of the union is to elevate the moral, mental and religious life of rural communities.

He also told several interesting incidents connected with his work in the sage brush and mountain districts of Idaho, where he has been organizing Sunday Schools during the past summer. He brought out the pathetic as well as the humorous side of life in those frontier districts.

We are always very much interested in the work of our alumni, and hope to hear from many others during the year.

When a fellow deliberately walks thirteen miles, in the dead of night, instead of riding on the train when it was waiting for him, and his ticket was already purchased, without cost to himself, then it begins to look as though he might be slightly off. The writer would suggest that the sanity of Pickett and Lewis be investigated.

Sailor Boy's Entertainment, Friday, November 20, at 8 P. M.

The second entertainment, under the leadership of the School of Music, will be given Friday evening, November 20, in Wood-Mar Hall. The Agoreton Literary Society will assist in the program and also have charge of the sale of tickets. The proceeds of these entertainments go toward the purchase of a grand piano for the auditorium of Wood-Mar Hall.

had just received some very startling news, news that meant much to them as a class, news that meant much to those most closely concerned, and news that was surprising and at first unbelievable, and—What was this amazing, disconcerting and disturbing news? Why, Paul Mills, '17, and Ina Wallen had been married the day before at McMinnville without so much as a word to anyone, except their mothers. The Crescent extends heartiest congratulations to Mr. and Mrs. Mills. May happiness ever be theirs.

VESTAL-RYAN NUPTIALS.

On Wednesday, November 4, at McMinnville, Miss Ruby Ryan, of Dundee, Oregon, became the bride of Clifford Vestal. At present they are stopping with the groom's parents, but contemplate moving to Salem in the near future. Mr. Vestal quit school a few weeks ago, making the excuse that he had a job in Salem. This explains the necessity for a job. We extend to Mr. and Mrs. Vestal wishes for a happy and prosperous life.

He is clerk of Oregon Yearly Meeting and superintendent of Friends Sabbath School.

Mr. Hodson rendered excellent service to the citizens of Newberg as a councilman.

Mrs. Hodson is active as a state and local worker in the W. C. T. U., and has been specially active in the department of scientific temperance.

Crescent Box.

Our publication is a valuable asset to the institution and should be a true expression of our college life. There is a box in the library, on the table nearest the door, for the use of each and every student. When you hear a joke worth telling on your friend, or news worth knowing, or have a bright idea yourself, write it down and put it in this box. If every student will help in this small way, it will mean much toward the betterment and extensiveness of our paper. We are all interested in P. C., but let's make others interested through the Crescent.

Trefians.

At the regular meeting of the Trefians Wednesday, November 4, after a short business session, an unusually entertaining program was given. After instrumental music by Lyra Miles, the first number of the "Oracle," the official publication of the Trefians, was read by Miss Kenworthy. The departments, from the editorial on the effect of woman suffrage on politics to the personals and want ads, showed great originality. Esther Mills gave a clever soliloquy, which was followed by an unique stunt by Esther Terrel and Anna Mills. The last number of the program was an able discussion of current events by Myrtle Thomas.

Election day the Y. M. C. A. cabinet took dinner together at the dormitory to discuss important matters concerning the association work.

The Parlor Pharmacy

A prophet is not without honor save in his own country, but an optimist is blessed in every land. While the pessimist is prophesying the optimist radiates good cheer and gathers the profits. An optimistic merchant makes an optimistic public, and both are benefitted by the exchange of gold, goods and good will. It is an open season for optimists in December. The spirit of the season is contagious. Be an optimist. We are ready with a holiday showing that will confound our enemies and please our friends.

P. S.—If some of our customers are dyspeptic pessimists our window display of Holiday goods will transform them into optimistic spend-thrifts of Christmas time.

Pacific vs. Albany.

"There is nothing new under the sun." But some things are unexpected. In the latter class belongs the foot ball ability shown by Albany college on their home field last Saturday. The team which scored a 10 point shutout against the Quaker eleven was a vastly different one from that which suffered such crushing defeats early in the season. "Sumting bane happen ter Olie." And incidentally it might be remarked that the visitors' line-up was woefully deficient compared with the aggregation which made such a good showing against Willamette one week ago. The absence of Colcord, the regular quarter back, disrupted things somewhat from the beginning. His punting and open field running were sorely needed. An injury to Guyer during the second quarter threw the back field into a still more disorganized condition, making necessary the shifting of Capt. Benson from left tackle to full back. This in turn weakened the line somewhat, making it possible for A. C. to make more yardage by line plunging than would otherwise have been the case.

Neither team was able to score during the first two of the 15-minute periods. Although the ball was in Pacific's territory most of the time, the line always stiffened and held when a touchdown seemed imminent. In the third quarter French interrupted a forward pass and ran 40 yards for the only touchdown of the game. He picked goal and in the last quarter annexed three more points by a field goal. Parker also showed up well for the Presbyterians. Replogle was the star for P. C., both in line bucking and end runs. Although playing the first game of his career at quarter back, Hinshaw ran the team like a veteran. He made practically no fumbles and ran well with the ball himself. The game was hard fought but was comparatively clean. Coach Bryan, of Albany H. S., was referee. Several members of the visiting team remained over night and attended a reception given at the dormitory.

Twelve students from the dormitories, under the chaperonage of Mr. and Mrs. Allen, journeyed to the top of Chehalem mountain Saturday, November 7.

LOCALS.

Mr. and Mrs. Paul Mills were in town Saturday, November 7.

Paul Lewis journeyed to Salem a week ago with the football team.

Louisa P. Round spoke to us on the subject of "Prayer" at chapel last Tuesday.

Floyd Bates and Ross Miles took advantage of the Salem game to spend Sunday at their home.

A number of the students have been suffering more or less severely from the grippe and severe colds.

November 4th the seniors brought their dinners and hid themselves to the Y. W. room for the noon hour. We don't know why they considered themselves so "select" that day.

Tuesday, November 10, Pres. Pennington was at chapel for the first time since his recent illness. Judging from the hearty cheer given his appearance, he holds a large place in the hearts of the student body. Here's wishing him a speedy recovery of his full strength.

Miss Florence Rees, '12, who is teaching in Monmouth high school, visited friends in Newberg, Sunday, November 8.

Miss Alice Christenson, a music student of McMinnville College, visited chapel Tuesday, Nov. 3.

Paul Lewis has returned to school after an absence of three days on account of sickness.

Miss Elma Paulsen, '14, who is teaching in Dundee high school, attended chapel Tuesday, Nov. 3.

There seems to be some misunderstanding as to the what and where of the "White House" in Salem. Ask F. C.

A certain member of our faculty recommended on November 9th that a course in campusty taken in connection with Chemistry I. would be both an improvement and an aid. Moral: Join the Chem. I. class.

If Prof. S. wishes to drop Greek, should he bring it up before the faculty or student body?"

Rev. Chas. O. Whitely had charge of the chapel exercises November 13.

Lesta Cook, an ex-'18, visited at Canyon Hall November 7.

The Christian Associations had charge of the evening session of Newberg Quarterly Meeting, Saturday, November 14.

Ray Langworthy, of the class of '14, and his brother Ben, visited chapel November 3.

Calendar Party.

The sophomores spent a very enjoyable evening last Friday, November 6, at the home of Myrtle Mills. The affair was in the form of a calendar party, and many interesting stunts were devised to represent the different months of the year. Perhaps the best of all the months were May,
when a picnic was held and refreshments served, and December, when each of the guests received a present from the gaily-lighted Christmas tree. Miss Kenworthy and Prof. Marshall acted as chaperones.

Eva C.—I am afraid if I start to work with someone else in the lab they'll get married too.

Prof. W.—If there is any danger we will give them some disinfectant to kill the microbe.

Prof. S.—Miss Kenworthy says
I flunked in Greek. Marshall must have gotten a "good grade."

Prof. H.—I suppose you will want six weeks special work to make up the condition.

Pickett—Are you looking for some one?

R. G. H.—Yes; Hawkins.

Pickett—Better get a microscope.

M. T., an all-wise junior, look-
