A PROMINENT WOMAN FAILS

Woman Member of Faculty May Be Docked—Mrs. Hodgkin May Appeal for Jury Trial.

A very interesting piece of news which may have serious results came up in the history of the college last week. One of our most estimable of professors and instructors in the use of the will power in punctuality failed in one of her important duties. For the past year it has been the custom of those students of the academy who wished to pursue the study of the works of Cicero to gather around Mrs. Hodgkin as chicks around the hen and discuss in learned phrases the works of the ancients. The report comes in from reliable sources that on Thursday morning, Feb. 10, the chicks gathered around a cold hearth as the guardian of the flock did not meet with them in her accustomed manner. With feathers drooping in discouragement the little flock went back to the roost and feeding pen. A committee was sent to wait upon Mrs. Hodgkin and found her peacefully sitting at her table in the library reading a great work on punctuality. She immediately rose from her bench of ease and with stately grace made her way through our halls of learning to her place of teaching. There she found none of her scholars, and was forced to report in great humility to the rest of the faculty that she forgot her Cicero class.

This matter will probably be taken up before the college board and discussed from all its viewpoints. Mrs. Hodgkin's past record is of the best nature and we all know she sinned unintentionally, but as this cannot usually be excused we cannot at this early stage tell the outcome of the affair. Needless to say, Mrs. Hodgkin has the full sympathy of the Crescent, and we will do all in our power to help her in this great crisis in her life.

Since this matter went to press we have heard that a special meeting of the Oregon Yearly

VACATION SCENES—TAKEN FROM LIFE

SCENE IN GLEE CLUB

A MAN SWOONS

The Trouble Is Unexpected and Practice Nearly Comes to a Stand-Still.

During the regular practice period of the Glee Club, Prof. Hull very thoughtlessly, but in all seriousness, informed the club that Prof. Taggart was sole possessor of a voice which exceeded any and all of those exhibited before us in the last Lyceum number. Mr. Taggart, whose nerves were already at a great tension, due to delayed mails, was unable to stand the added strain of the admiring eyes which were turned upon him. He covered his face with his hands and just wilted. After some moments his mouth was seen to move, and all listened to hear the sound, but all that could be distinguished was what sounded very much like "Coesse! Coesse!" We are not sure, but believe this word must have some such meaning as "excelsior." Information will be appreciated.

Meeting of Friends has been called to settle the case. Again we wish Mrs. Hodgkin to know in her fight for justice that the student body of P. C. is behind her, and that it will do all in its power to aid her.

Work alone will stave off spring fever. Try it.

LADIES OF THE FACULTY EXPOSED

Teachers Involuntarily Show Plebian Traits—Young's Morals Must Be Guarded.

A very touching and pathetic incident in college life happened on Thursday of last week, which if practised and noised abroad would be very demoralizing to the young life of the nation. This incident, which was not executed before the eyes of the scribe, but was suggested so boldly by the ladies themselves, cannot but give us a hint to the real life of the faculty. The prophet of old who said that where there is smoke there is, was or will be fire, was true in his statement and from that we can infer what we will.

This touching affair was staged in the dormitory immediately after dinner Thursday evening, and while the names of the ladies are withheld by the national board of censorship, we can give a fairly reliable account of the scene:

Behind the door into the dining saloon are the hat and coat racks. Mr. Hawkins was putting his coat on in the dark corner at the entrance when these two ladies of the faculty started out of the door. They showed no signs of great emotion, but calmly walked up to the door and as one of the maidens opened it

MERCURY'S RECORD IS THREATENED

Rookesses Show Great Form in Their Training Activities.

Memories of childish desires to be a circus rider, tight-rope walker or actor are not in it when we stop and think about what our freshmen girls have been doing, for from all reports the ability of some of our fair maidens is beyond belief.

For some time past there has been some active, consistent training done, and it reached a climax a few days ago when two freshman girls, Ruth Hinshaw, a Newberg lassie, and Zoe Hibbs, the little miss from the land of the sage brush, rivaling Mrs. Mercury of olden days, mounted to the tops of the desks in the study room and "beat it" down toward the front of the room. They refused to tell the results of the race, so it must have been a draw.

This Atalanta Association, also called "The Daughters of Mercury," is working to develop a team, and it has been reported that Mrs. Hodgkin was appointed coach and Mr. Weesner manager at a recent meeting of the association. Meets have been arranged with Reed, O. A. C., Columbia and Hill Military Academy, which are to be held in the near future.

Since the girls' equipment is very meager and there are so many strong supporters we are confident that this will be incorporated under the student body, so that there will be finances sufficient to cover all expenses.

This should receive the undivided support of all loyal students, for such men as Bernarr McFadden, ex-editor of the magazine, Physical Culture, Farmer Burns, trainer of the world's champion wrestler, Frank Gotch, Jess Willard and Doc Yak have all strongly recommended the introduction of this sport in Pacific College.

Your job is to help beat P. U. February 26. Get busy. Your talk will help.

Since we feel that the Crescent should be a paper giving the collected happenings of the whole school, we, the sophomore class of Pacific College, will give the readers of the Crescent the usual material written up perhaps in a little different style than usual, rather than making our issue a class boost, by much speaking of our would-be enterprising actions. Lest some readers of the Crescent should get a mistaken idea from the issue put out one month ago, we would say that the regular staff of the Crescent are not all freshmen as indicated, but merely the one issue was put out by that class. In connection with this number, if it seems that there are rather radical statements, we beg our readers to bear in mind that this is something of a scandal number and that such remarks may have been made for "color." However, we would have it distinctly understood that there is a truth behind every statement.

We, the students of P. C., wish to thank Mr. Woodward for the Lyceum course offered this year and the very high type of entertainments given. We wish him the highest success in securing a course for next year, and assure him of our most hearty support.

LYCEUM COURSE CLOSES

What was thought by many to be the crowning number of the Lyceum course this year was given on Friday evening, February 4, in Wood-Mar Hall by the Olde Towne Quartette, consisting of Messrs. Hutchinson, first tenor; Green, second tenor; Kanatzar, first bass, and Strob, second bass.

One of the very pleasing features of the program was that the desires of every one, old and young, were appeased alike, by old songs, new songs, middle-aged songs, solos and readings. A very amusing effect was given by a medley made up of forty well known college songs, the most of which were recognized by everyone in the audience. The hit made by this number was evident by the hearty applause which followed.

Mr. Greene's rendering of "A School Boy's First Attempt in Public" also was a pronounced success from hysterics to pigeon toes. Mr. Hutchinson also had some readings for little folk. Mr. Kanatzar made his most spectacular appearance in the representation of a country boy visiting his older brother, who was attending college. His actions were such that the safety of our grand piano looked to be rather insecure. If a man exists with more hands and feet in evidence than Mr. Kanatzar had during that particular part of the program of which we speak, we would highly recommend him to Barnum & Bailey.

The closing number of the program was most artistically arranged, the men standing around a log cabin while they sang one of our oldest and best loved songs. The only light in the house was a soft glow which came from within the cabin and illuminated the faces of the singers.

We wish to express our appreciation of the music given by the orchestra before the Lyceum numbers of this year's course, and we hope to hear them from the same platform next year.

Y. W. C. A. BANQUET

Friday evening, February 11, a simple yet dainty banquet was served by the Y. W. girls in commemoration of the fiftieth anniversary of the founding of the association.

Five courses were served, with toasts between, the first of which was an address of welcome by Mrs. R. W. Lewis.

If reports be correct, those present spent a very enjoyable evening.

Y. W. C. A.

Miss Dabb, Indian secretary for the U. S., who was working in the interest of the Y. W. jubilee, gave a very interesting talk in the meeting on February 10, telling something of the history of the association which was started in England fifty years ago. A brief sketch of Miss Dodge, the first national president, her life and work was also given.

Y. M. C. A.

Rev. Whitely led Y. M. on February 11. He gave a short practical talk on our duty of carrying out God's program for our lives.

TREFIAN

The Trefians at their last meeting on Wednesday afternoon were entertained by a "Southern Program." Readings from Southern writers and tales of the South were rendered.

AGORETON

The Agoreton Society has completed its work for the first half of the year in very good style. The election of officers for the second semester will be held this week.

HIGH SCHOOL ITEMS

The annual freshmen reception was held in the high school gymnasium last Friday evening, from 7:30 to 10:30. A dainty luncheon was served from the library and the program was a success. A happy evening was enjoyed by all.

The Pyerians met last Thursday evening for a business meeting, and after adjournment went to the gymnasium and witnessed the wrestling match between Newberg and Washington High.

Miss Dabb, secretary of the Y. W. C. A., gave a very interesting talk in assembly Thursday concerning the life and habits of the Indians in the United States. At 3:30 she talked to the girls, her subject being, "The Jubilee."

COLLEGE STUDENTS ENTERTAIN

Thursday evening after the basket ball game the college students of Pacific entertained the boys from Philomath in the parlors of Canyon Hall. A very enjoyable evening followed and the most friendly atmosphere prevailed.

they noticed Mr. Hawkins in the dark recess. At this time came the great shock and surprise of the week, when one of the lady professors suggested in loud tones, "Let's squeeze Mr. Hawkins." Mr. Hawkins, we are proud to say, rose to the occasion manfully, and thinking of the good of the youth of the land should such actions become public, spoke his highest convictions when he said, "Oh, don't!" The Crescent has nothing but commendation for him for the stand he has taken in this great crisis. No one can tell to what depths he would have fallen or how small he would have been mashed had the ladies been allowed to push the door upon him as they suggested.

FACULTY BLUFF MAY BE CALLED

Students need but one bump. Believing the social functions carried on by the students much too few and far between, the faculty endeavored to "give them a hunch" in such a manner that it should not only serve to enlighten the erring ones, but at the same time be not altogether unpleasant to themselves.

It was decided that the best way to get the matter before the whole student body would be to try keeping it secret. This was a great success, with a few exceptions, which we have promised to reach through this issue.

The affair came under two sub-headings: (1) Saturday and (2) Monday. The first was only a small imitation of the real climax of (2), but may still be worth the mentioning. After minor preparations of working on the schedule the faculty began operations on a barrel of candy furnished by Prof. Hawkins. Some trouble arose as to who should have the "suckers," but to save farther trouble they were at last divided between Prof. Taggart and Miss Lewis. Acting President Lewis was forced to go without on account of the aggressive spirit of Mrs. Hodgkin. On this account another "doings" of something the same nature was planned for the following Monday, the only change being that chocolate and wafers were to be served instead of candy. The reason for this particular selection of eats was that Mrs. Hodgkin could not endure either of the two.

Monday evening nothing was too good for Mr. Lewis. The refreshments were served in style and it was unanimously decided that if the students could only follow the example set for them the affair would be a great success. It is reported that Prof. Hawkins, the local calendar maker, has had sixty-four applications for social functions, etc., since Monday.

PROMINENT FRESHMAN

"DEAD TO THE WORLD"

The student body was shocked on Tuesday, February 8, when the report was received that Mr. Hinshaw was confined to his room with some serious disease, and would in all probability be there for some time.

Later reports changed this somewhat, but the gentleman mentioned was not able to make further than the limits of the campus before last Sunday. In the meantime he had to call off all social dates and like engagements and live the life of a recluse.

Some rumors of "an avenging conscience" was spread abroad, but it was not known just what significance was to be placed to this.

His friends are much pleased to see him walking about again and trust that he will soon be completely recovered.

SENIOR AND FRESHMAN COMBINE IN BEHALF OF ACADEMY

Ladies have a very strong effect on some people. Tuesday, in a meeting of the college students, Clarence, a lofty, dignified senior, lowered himself to the groveling level of the freshmen and united forces with Harold in an attempt to pass a motion allowing college men to take "prep" girls to the basket ball reception given for Philomath College. Though suffering from the shock, the Soph and Junior girls came to the rescue by announcing that leap-year privileges would also allow them to bring "prep" boys in such a case. In the stress and excitement the tragedy was averted.

GROUNDS SUPERINTENDENT PRIVATELY REPRIMANDED

Accused of setting a bad example before students, the above named officer was privately reprimanded by a prominent member of the faculty. A young lady, whose name is withheld, is said to be the cause of the trouble, she having received gifts from Mr. ——. Particulars may be obtained by private inquiry through the medium of the faculty. All inquiries should be made as follows:

I do hereby make known my desire to hear more about the "small sock" affair.

THINGS PAST

Miss Lewis went to Portland Saturday, Feb. 5.

Alma Roberts was out of school Feb. 8, on account of sickness.

Harold E. Hinshaw spent last weekend at his home in Portland.

We surely do appreciate Mr. Whiteley's work in bringing in new students.

P. H. Lewis was detained over night at the Portland police station Monday.

Edith Hanson is back in school again after being absent two weeks, with the grippe.

Rev. Richard H. Kennedy, of Chemawa Indian School, visited the college on Feb. 4.

Miss McCracken spent Saturday and Sunday, Feb. 5 and 6, with relatives in Scotts Mills.

The Philomath basket ball team, which played here Thursday night, visited college Friday morning.

Pauline Terrell and Cecil Hinshaw are new students in the Academy. We are glad to welcome them.

Alma Roberts spent the latter part of exam week with her cousin, Ralph Roberts, who lives across the river.

Zoe Hibbs and Ruth Dimmitt, two of our worthy freshmen, spent Sunday, Feb. 6, in Dayton, with their cousin.

Robert H. Dann made a business trip to Forest Grove Saturday, Feb. 8. We would have been less surprised had it been Salem.

In a game played Tuesday, Feb. 10, the P. C. basket ball team defeated the Philomath college quintet with a decisive score of 83 to 13.

A large number of the students attended the social given by the Newberg Young People's Union Feb. 8. A very good time was reported.

Misses Lewis, Sutton and McCracken and Prof. and Paul Lewis motored to the river Wednesday noon and ate their lunch by the seething waters of the Willamette.

At last! The awful nightmare of exams is past and we are breathing freely once more. But it makes us sad to miss so many faces from the ranks of the freshmen.
