MAY DAY FESTIVAL IS BIG SUCCESS

Breakfast, Parade, Crowning of Queen Norma and Drills All Enjoyed.

The bi-ennial May Day festival was an unqualified success from the early morning breakfast to the last and winning run of the base ball game in the afternoon. A large crowd witnessed the festivities and all praised it highly.

After an early breakfast the parade was formed, which marched through the main streets of town. The procession included an automobile decorated by each class, a crowd of fools, and jesters; and about 11 a. m. return was made to the athletic field. Here Queen Norma I was crowned by Ross C. Miles, president of the student body. Then between the queen and the great crowd the fairies, milk maids and weavers paid their homage. There were light fantastic dances by fairies in dainty costumes. Following this was the winding of the May pole and drills by weavers in vari-colored attire.

The Womans' Auxiliary managed a big cafeteria dinner at Canyon Hall at noon.

The prize for the best decorated car in the parade went to the first year academy class.

A delightful seven-course dinner was then served, followed by toasts. The entire membership of both classes was present, including Prof. M. C. Mills and Miss Mary Johnson as chaperons.

Toasts were given by Lloyd Edwards, Robert Dann, Ethel Andrews, Sewell Newhouse and Norma Harvey. Prof. M. C. Mills served as toastmaster.

MARION LAWRENCE TALKS IN CHAPEL

Marion Lawrence, general secretary of the International Sunday School Association, spoke in chapel on May 18 on the results of an education. Although knowledge is important Mr. Lawrence believes humility, sympathy and love are the essential characteristics of an educated man. He gave a number of questions which involve some of the characteristics of a truly educated man, and suggested that each college student answer the questions for himself.

Has an education given you sympathy with every good cause?

Has an education made you a better citizen?

Has an education enabled you to make and keep friends?

Do you see anything to love in a little child?

Will a lonely dog follow you on the street?

Are you happy when alone?

C. A. PHIPPS IN Y. M. C. A.

C. A. Phipps, general secretary for the Sunday schools of Oregon, led Y. M. C. A. May 16. He spoke from the last chapter of Ephesians, in which Paul exhorts the christian to prepare for christian warfare. He said among the parts of the armor we must put on one of the essential pieces is the shield of faith. The shield of faith not only serves as a protection from the enemy's darts but if it is kept bright it will dazzle the eyes of the enemy. Our faith grows only as our colors are shown and followed. The soldier wore his colors from the top of his helmet and was always proud of them and willing to die for their honor. We must always show our colors and then be true to them. The whole armor of God is to enable the christian to stand against the wiles of the devil. Among the wiles of the devil the most harmful to the young man is the temptation to low ideals. But if we put on the whole armor of God and take the "sword of the spirit which is the word of God," we will be well equipped to wage an aggressive christian warfare against this temptation.

ATHLETIC ASSN. HOLDS ELECTION

The Athletic Association at three consecutive meetings held during the noon hour, May 1, 2, and 3, elected the following officers:

- President—Harold Hinshaw.
- Vice-president—Willard Wiley.
- Secretary—Lionel Kramien.
- Treasurer—Lloyd Edwards.
- Football Manager—Lloyd Edwards.
- Basketball Manager—Howard Elliott.
- Baseball Manager—Harold Hinshaw.
- Tennis Manager—Willard Wiley.

The Athletic Council for next year will be composed of one faculty member and the following men: Ross Miles, Lloyd Edwards, Frank Colcord, Howard Elliott.

The method of awarding tennis letters was changed. A man, now, in order to win a tennis letter must play one-half of all the matches of the season's inter-collegiate tournaments.

PACIFIC WALLOPS CHEMAWA REDSKINS

May Day Ball Game Is Played for Ten Innings. Pitchers Star.

Pacific defeated the Chemawa Indians four to three in a 10 inning game May Day. The contest, which was witnessed by a large crowd, was interesting, but was poorly played by both teams. All of the runs were made on errors.

The day was not warm enough to be ideal for baseball. Neither team scored until the fifth inning, when Chemawa made two runs. Pacific scored two the seventh and each team scored one in the eighth. Colcord circled the bases in this inning on a fly that the left fielder dropped and threw over first. The score remained three to three until an error by Service let Kramien on first. Downie missed Colcord's grounder and Chamberlain's wild throw to first let Kramien in with the winning run.

Gulley again pitched a great game for the Quakers, fanning 18 batters, and allowing five scattered hits. Bittler, of Chemawa, was also very effective on the mound, striking out 12 batters and giving the Quakers only two hits. In the fourth inning he struck out three batters straight with Colcord on third and P. Elliott on second.

The Crescent is a week late this time. The trouble is just this. There was but cash enough to put out two more issues and in order that you might have one after commencement and not make too long a break this one was delayed.

The question of increase in the student body for next year has not yet been emphasized. Some may believe that because of our entrance into the great war that the student body must necessarily be decreased. This may be true in a sense but need not be so. The government by passing the conscription bill recognized the fact that it is not the duty of all to go to the front. To expect that, if it continues, the war will not kill many of the young American leaders is futile. This means that when peace does come, as it must, there will be a crying need for leaders. Such leaders as only a christian college can produce. The administration does ~~not~~ expect to call but a half million men during the coming winter. Surely, in the face of the world crisis there could be no more opportune time to prepare for a greater service in life. It is a time to consider fully whether we ought to stay at home and work or prepare for a greater duty. Some one must be prepared to lead in the remodeling of the world. The getting of new students for Pacific next year is a patriotic duty, both to nation and school. And too—remember this—if they won't come here urge them to go to college some place.

TREFIAN

Spring means new hats and new clothes, so the Trefians discussed styles May 9. A style cycle by Harriett Hodgkin opened the program. This was cleverly given as a phantasy in which father time told us of the future styles. Several three-minute talks, including "Hats" by Eva Parrett, "Coats" by Blanche Melling, "Dresses" by Mildred Ferguson, and "Shoes and Hose" by Mary Pennington, gave some interesting facts as well as entertaining ideas. Ruth Hinshaw and Alta Gumm conducted a hat shop in which all of the latest styles in hats were temptingly displayed before the eyes of an admiring and appreciative audience. The next program will be in the hands of the social committee.

PACIFIC WINS

Pacific won every match in the tournament held with Pacific University here on May 5. Edwards took the first two sets from Wade 8-6 and 6-4. Wiley defeated Fenanga easily 6-1, 6-3. Wiley and Edwards won from Wade and Fenanga 6-1, 6-4. A return tournament at Forest Grove is expected but this will be the last intercollegiate tournament held this year.

The game with Chemawa May 19 was called off because of the rain, but a game has been arranged with the Indians for next Saturday.

Plans are under way for the college department to entertain the seniors of the academy and of Newberg High school next Saturday night.

Raymond Bassett, who was enrolled in the commercial department, has joined the coast artillery and has gone to Fort Stevens for training.

Christine Hollingsworth and Emmett Gulley took a train ride to Springbrook Saturday afternoon, May 12, and picked violets on the way home.

The recitation periods were shortened last Friday and a number of the classes were excused, so that the students could attend the Sunday school convention.

Why does Harold E. Hinshaw spend so many more of his Saturdays in Portland than formerly? Why does he get up so early and catch the 6:37 train? "Doctor's orders," he says.

May 9th every man enjoyed a live testimony meeting at Y. M. C. A. Harold Hinshaw read the scripture lesson and gave a testimony which was very inspiring and an excellent starter for a good meeting.

A very delightful picnic in the college canyon Thursday evening in honor of Lyra Miles birthday was enjoyed by Lyra Miles, Marguerite Cook, Violet Fastabend, Robert Dann, Harold Hinshaw and Ross Miles, with Miss Johnson as chaperon.

Miss Lewis at dinner (remark- ing about eating syrup) "Prof. McMinn used to eat syrup every meal."

Prof. Mills, "Wonder if he gets syrup every meal now since he is married."

Miss Lewis, "Several different kinds, probably."

Bishop W. A. Sellew of the Free Methodist Church, spoke in chapel May 4th on the advantages of christian civilization. Bishop Sellew compared the civil, educational and social advantages of this country to the poverty, ignorance and superstition existing in the non-christian lands he has visited.

Dr. W. V. Coffin, president of the board of trustees of Whittier College, had charge of the chapel exercises on May 7. Dr. Coffin stated that the present is a testing period and that the christian religion is facing the greatest challenge it has ever known. The way to help bring about a greater world is for each individual to prepare to live a more efficient life.

Mary Jones, Eva Miles, Laura Bell, Lesta Cook, Jennie DeBord, Dorothy Waldron, Floyd Bates and Clarence Jones were week-end visitors for the May Day festivities.

All athletic managers shall make an itemized report of their expenditures to the athletic council. This is the decision of the new council made at their first meeting last Monday. The council will in the future have charge of the gym and the renting of it to outside parties. Lloyd Edwards was chosen chairman and Howard Elliott secretary.

Rev. G. V. McClure, of Rex, presented a very timely subject at the Y. M. C. A. May 2. He brought the thought that a man, who is a man, has the courage of his convictions and stands for the right even though he stands alone. Every man is some one's ideal, thus placing a great responsibility on each individual to live the strongest possible christian life.

Not to be daunted by the continued Oregon mist, an optimistic group, armed with umbrellas, "eats" and blankets, packed themselves into a farm wagon on the evening of May 19, and with much joking and jolting proceeded to a small empty house on Chehalem creek. After sandwiches, salad, and a sunset, the picnickers followed Lewis and Clarke on their exploration expedition of the Northwest for the great distance of possibly a quarter of a mile. Then, there being no more worlds to conquer, they again stowed themselves away in the wagon and sang as they rattled their way home.

The freshman class has been wanting to take a hike so long that it was almost forgotten by the members themselves. But the spark still lived and sprang into a flame which kindled into a fire, literal as well as figurative, Friday evening, May 11. The members gathered at the college building about 4:30 and, accompanied by Mr. Mills and Miss Elma Paulsen, set out for an evening of fun. The destination was a small bungalow northwest of town. Rain may have a dampening effect but it was proved that it can't dampen freshmen spirits. Upon arrival a fire was soon crackling merrily in the stove within the house. Then the people scattered in all directions, some to pick flowers, some to gather ferns, and others to soak their feet attempting to lure the innocent fish from the nearby stream. The wanderers were hastily collected at the call for supper and soon weenies were sizzling over a bonfire. After much merriment in the line of games, songs, and story-telling, the company bade good-night to the little house and their playground and wandered back to civilization.

Y. W. C. A.

On Wednesday morning, May 9, the girls of the first year academy class had charge of the Y. W. C. A. meeting. The theme was, "What the Young Women's Christian Association Has Meant to Me." Many girls expressed their gratitude for the Y. W. C. A. and for the help and strength it had been to them in different ways.

The meeting last week was devoted to Chinese mission work. Florence Calkins led, giving a brief history of missions in China from the time when the story of Christ had to be carried in secret, up to the present, when the door of opportunity is open so wide. Other girls also told things of interest concerning China and Chinese missions.
