REV. HOMER COX GIVES ADDRESS

Class of Twelve Academy Graduates

Simple, yet very pleasing, were the graduating exercises of Pacific Academy in Wood-Mar Hall at 2:00 p. m. Tuesday, June 10th. The auditorium was effectively decorated in the class colors of purple and gold, and a profusion of beautiful flowers were piled along the edge of the platform, gifts from the friends and relatives of the graduates. The class of 1919 is a large one, twelve members receiving diplomas. It has also had an exceptional scholarship record, both as a whole, and individually. The faculty experienced some difficulty in the decision as to who was to receive the college scholarship, given annually, because of the fact that two members of the class had done such excellent work that a decision between the two was impossible. This was remedied by giving two scholarships, which were presented by President Pennington during the program.

The address of the day was given by the Rev. Homer L. Cox, pastor of the First Friends church of Portland, his subject being, "An Inventory of Life." Mr. Cox gave a very inspiring message, which included a direct challenge to the members of the class. The speaker took an invoice of the assets and liabilities of life, presenting them clearly and with a great deal of originality. He suggested that the great debt which we all owe to the past be paid to the future with interest, and his message to the members of the graduating class was that they pay their liabilities by the great offering of a Christian influence on those about them.

Before presenting the diplomas, Pres. Pennington spoke a few words in appreciation of the class and the work which it has done, and emphasized the message of the principal speaker. He then presented the diplomas to the five girls and seven boys in the class, after which he presented the scholarships. These were received by Misses Pauline Terrell and Harriett Hodgkin. Both of these young ladies have made an average grade of ninety-six throughout their entire four years of Academy work.

DR. WALTER C. WOODWARD P. C. COMMENCEMENT SPEAKER

Class of Four Completes College Course. Olive Johnson Wins Class Honors.

The Commencement exercises of the class of '19 of Pacific College were held in Wood-Mar Hall on the morning of Wednesday, June 11. A class of four received diplomas, and the Commencement address was delivered by Walter C. Woodward. After the invocation by Rev. F. C. Stannard, the Halls rendered the Serenade by Widor very beautifully; Miss Hull at the piano, Mrs. Hull, the violin, and Mr. Hull, the 'cello.

President Pennington introduced the Commencement speaker, an alumnus of Pacific College and now General Secretary of the Five Years Meeting and editor of the American Friend. Dr. Woodward commented on his memories of his graduation, twenty-one years ago, and expressed his gratitude to be able to be at Pacific again.

Dr. Woodward announced as his subject, "The Higher Appeal." There come appeals to a man's life; he has his desires, but sometimes a higher appeal comes, and he leaves all and answers it. Queen Esther took her life in her hands when she answered the higher appeal to save her country's people. John the Baptist answered when he said: "He must increase, but I must decrease." Washington answered when he left his home and followed his country's call.

Loyalty, the acid test of character, is an allegiance to something higher than one's self; it is a steadfast answer to the higher appeal. The growth of loyalty may be traced in a child's life: first his loyalty to family, then to civic responsibilities, to institutions, to country, and to God. Each is a greater loyalty, an answer to a higher appeal.

The higher appeal, now, is for a greater, a truer, a juster patriot ism. The world cries, "Wanted—A man to go into the big brother business on an international scale." There must be a patriotism with no narrower bounds than the Kingdom of God.

The appeal was sounded in a recent meeting of the Federal Churches of America by representatives of the Evangelical churches of the war devastated countries. The higher appeal to the graduates and students of a Christian college is to bring about more of righteousness and Christian brotherhood in the world.

Dr. Woodward's address was not unusually long, but he said a great deal. The class was fortunate in being able to secure him for speaker.

Following the address Mr. Hull sang two songs by Cadman, "From the Land of the Sky-blue Water" and "The Moon Drops Low." These are songs from Indian themes and are striking and beautiful.

President Pennington conferred the degrees upon the class. Sewell Newhouse received the degree of Bachelor of Science; Ralph Knight, Bachelor of Arts; Louise Hodgkin, Bachelor of Arts; Olive Johnson, Bachelor of Science and Arts.

The year's honors were announced, and Frances Elliott of the Junior Class received the Junior prize for high scholarship during the Junior year. This consists of a scholarship for the next year. The Senior honors went to Olive Johnson, for scholarship during the whole college course.

The benediction was pronounced by Rev. Carter of the Friends church. The class was deluged with flowers and gifts and congratulations from the many friends that thronged the hall.

ALUMNI ASSOCIATION PRESENTS PLAY

Lively Twins Create Many Laughs.

The Alumni Association held their annual public entertainment in Wood-Mar Hall on the evening of Tuesday, June 10. The entertainment this year was in the form of a play, "Prudence Says So," by Ethel Hueston.

The scenes of the play are enacted in the Methodist parsonage, occupied by the minister and his lively daughters. Prudence, the eldest, has brought up the family, but she is married and leaves. Aunt Grace comes to take her place, and arrives in the midst of quite an accident—Connie, the youngest, has knocked the stovepipe down onto her clean dress.

The play continues among mishaps and jokes until the twins grow up and fall in love. They have planned a match between Fairy and Professor Duck, but Cupid outwits them and the Professor leaves his heart in Carol's keeping.

Following is the cast of characters:

- Mr. Starr, a Methodist minister.
-J. Carl Nelson '04
- Prudence, the eldest daughter.
-Elma Paulsen '14
- Fairy, another daughter.
-Jessie Britt '99
- The Twins, Lark. Gladys Hannon '15
- Carol. Florence Rees '12
- Connie, the youngest.
-Daisy Newhouse '14
- Aunt Grace. Edna Forsyth '08
- Eugene Babler. Victor Rees '12
- Professor Duck. Harvey Wright '10

The characters were all well represented, and all those on the cast played their parts exceptionally well.

Before the first act, Miss Blythe Owen rendered a very pleasing piano solo, and at the close of Act II a reading was given by Mrs. C. A. Morris.

Howard Elliott has been awarded a sweater by the Athletic Association for his record in interscholastic athletics for Pacific. He is given the sweater for having obtained six letters. He is the third man to do this since the award has been made, and the fourth to receive a sweater, it being possible to get one with four letters and a diploma.

ANOTHER YEAR CLOSED

Pacific College has finished another successful year of her history. The year was an exceptionally hard one, but it has been brought to a close with colors flying, and a large and successful class has been graduated from the Academy, and just as successful, though not quite so large a one, from the College.

Pacific did not have an S. A. T. C. this year, but continued with regular college work, and all are glad now that this was done. We have been able to accomplish much more than most other schools during the past year.

The influenza furnished another hindrance to the full year's work, but due to the extra efforts of faculty and student body, much more of this lost time has been made up than seemed possible at first.

We are able to look back with gratitude over a year's work well done. We feel that we, as a student body, have grown greatly during the past eight months. Not only have we been benefitted by our studies but by our school life. We have not been able to do much in interscholastic athletics, but we have kept our spirits up and are ready to start with an advantage when we are able.

The Y. M. and Y. W. C. A.'s have been able to do much for the benefit of the College and for the good of the individual students. The Y. M. is also sending the largest delegation in its history to Seabeck, which should augur well for the Association next year.

Many broadening associations with members of the faculty and other students have existed, and this has meant much to those who wished to derive benefit from it. Many friendships have been formed that will have an influence on us all the rest of our lives.

Many of the students of this year will not be back next year. The College will not be just the same another time. Do we each feel that we have made the most of our opportunities of the year? Has the year helped as we should have made it in our preparation for future service?

Let us prepare now to make future years equal this if we feel that it has. Let us resolve to make future years do what this one should have if we do not feel its worth.

We are proud of Pacific. We are proud of her record as a school. We are proud of her influence upon the lives of men and women. We are proud of her faculty and student body and the work of the year now ended. Above all things are we proud of having been a student, and of having been able to help, even ever so little, in molding the lives of those with whom we have been associated.

SCHOOL OF MUSIC GIVES RECITAL

Saturday evening, June 7, at Wood-Mar Hall occurred the annual Commencement concert given by the School of Music. This concert, which is the first of the regular Commencement exercises, is always greatly appreciated by the music lovers of both the college and the city. The explanation of the music by Mr. Hull, particularly of those numbers taken from Peer Gynt, was very interesting and helped the audience to a better understanding and greater appreciation of the music. The following program was given:

Piano duets from Peer Gynt:
(a) Mgrid's Complaint.....
(b) Ase's Death.....
(c) Arabian Dance.....
(d) Anitra's Dance.....Grieg
Mrs. Hull, Mr. Hull.

Songs:
(a) To Voice My Thoughts.....
.....Sinding
(b) In Prison.....Faure
Mr. Hull.

Piano duets from Peer Gynt:
(a) Voices of Morning.....
(Stormy Evening on the Coast...
(c) Solvejg's Song.....Grieg
Mrs. Hull, Mr. Hull.

Songs:
(a) Love Song.....Class
(b) The Oriole.....Brown
(c) Old Watt and the Rabbits...
.....Homer
Mr. Hull.

Strings:
(a) Romance.....
(b) Rondo.....Papini

CLASS DAY

The College graduating class gave a very unique and thoroughly interesting Class Day program Monday evening of this week. The auditorium was crowded with a large and appreciative audience and each number of the program was applauded heartily.

The program consisted of the following numbers:

Us.

Youth.

When Friends Meet.

Time: November, 1918.

Place: Scottfield.

Scene: Hostess House.

Our Other Member.

After Us.

The first number consisted of very original introductions. The life history of each member of the class was given by a hidden voice and as each member was mentioned they made their appearance on the stage in cap and gown. These histories were cleverly written and very interesting.

Youth was a humorous talk given by Sewell Newhouse. In his speech Mr. Newhouse outlined some of the characteristics of youth and showed how anxious the class is to get out into the world of action. His ability to tell funny stories made this part of the program very enjoyable.

The third number was a scene in which the lady members of the class were Y. W. C. A. war workers and the men dressed in uniform told of the forms of war service in which they had had a part. A special feature of this number was victrola music.

Much to the surprise of some of the on-lookers, "Our Other Member" proved to be Old Bruin. The latter very suddenly and mysteriously appeared from above, just after Olive Johnson had told his story.

The last number on the program, "After Us," was the class will. Louise Hodgkin had charge of this part of the program and judiciously bequeathed their customs, personal and class effects, including Old Bruin, to different classes, students and faculty members. The will was original and made a very pleasant closing number for the program.

Ralph Rees, of the class of '07, who is now a professor in Cornell University, Ithaca, New York, was on the campus during Commencement week.

ALUMNI RECEPTION

An informal reception in honor of the Alumni was given by the College students on Monday, June 9. After the Alumni-College ball game and the presentation of the Freshman gift the members of the Alumni present and the College students gathered in the lower hall of Wood-Mar Hall and a short time was spent in "getting acquainted." Punch and wafers were served by the Freshman class.

BACCALAUREATE

The Baccalaureate service for the graduate of both the College and Academy of Pacific were held Sunday morning, June 8, in the Friends church. Special music was a feature of the morning when a quartet consisting of Eva Miles, Dora Dunbar, Professor R. W. Lewis and Palmer Hayes, sang.

The address of the day was given by Pres. Pennington, his subject being, "Let Us Go On." He introduced his address by referring to the fact that Commencement used to be held at the beginning of the school year and suggested that the word was fitting even as used today. He mentioned some very appropriate texts which he said he might have used: "The place has grown too straight for us;" "Much land yet to possess;" "Grow;" "Press forward."

He spoke of rejoicing with what had already been accomplished in an educational way by the two classes graduating. He urged that they go on always being students, not only in college but in the world. He spoke also of rejoicing in the characters built and emphasized the importance that they be character builders always. Character, he said, is a slow development. "Heaven is not reached at a single bound." It is necessary always to keep in view the "afterself." He said he rejoiced in service rendered and particularly mentioned the service already rendered by the two classes. Each must prepare to serve in a larger field. He rejoiced that so many of the two classes knew God.

He closed by impressing upon those present the necessity of so living that at the close of life they could in all honesty say "I have fought a good fight."

FRESHMAN CLASS PRESENTS GIFT

During exam week everyone on the campus became curious for the Freshman suddenly became busy, not merely cramming as everyone was, but using their muscular strength. As the fruit of their labors a cement post draped with oilcloth and canvas appeared on the south side of the College drive-way. Still people were curious. Finally Monday just after the Varsity-Alumni game the post was unveiled. It was a sun-dial, and a very artistic one, too. Anna Mills, president of the Freshman class, gave a short dedicatory speech in which she spoke of Freshman loyalty.

On Monday morning, June 9, a tennis tournament was held between the Junior class and picked teams from the rest of the college. The first match was girls' doubles in which Mary Pennington and Margaret Hodson represented the Juniors against Anna Mills and Margaret Gill. The Juniors won the match by two 6-2 sets.

The men's doubles were hard fought sets. The Junior team was Howard Elliott and Alfred Haworth. They were defeated in 6-2 and 6-3 sets by Lowell Edwards and Walter Cook.

The men's singles were played during the dinner hour, so there were not many spectators, but there was some real playing here. Howard Elliott and Lowell Edwards kept the ball traveling about as fast as one could see. Elliott won in the only set played, 6-4.

Friday evening, June 6, the Y. M. and Y. W. C. A.'s gave a reception in honor of the Seniors. This was held in the lower floor of Wood-Mar Hall. The program consisted of music and speeches. Professor Perisho gave the opening talk. After a violin duet by Murray Gregory and Lowell Edwards, Harold Lee, the Vice President of the Y. M. C. A., gave an appreciation of the Seniors from the Y. M. standpoint. Louise Hodgkin responded. A mixed quartet gave a number, and Irene Hodgkin, the President of the Y. W., spoke, and Ralph Knight responded. Refreshments of sherbet and wafers completed the evening.

ACADEMY CLASS DAY PROGRAM

The Fourth Year Academy Class gave a short class day program at the chapel hour on Tuesday morning, June 9, 1919. The program consisted principally of class prophecy presented in a somewhat unusual manner. Vernon Bush and George Upton gave, in dialogue form, the occupations of the class members, and each member appeared as his or her name was mentioned and gave a "stunt" to illustrate some phase of his future occupation. Bush and Upton are born comedians. The class song completed the program. The class has hoped thus to start the custom of having an Academy class program each year.

EXPRESSION CLASS GIVES PROGRAM

On Tuesday afternoon, June 3, at four o'clock, occurred the formal presentation of the class in Expression. This is the first year that such a class has been offered and it was with peculiar interest that the students and faculty gathered in the chapel to hear the members of the class give their readings. The audience was agreeably surprised at the ability displayed by several of the class. Owing to a lapse of memory Howard Elliott was not present Tuesday but gave his selection Wednesday after school. The program, which was varied and very interesting, was as follows:
 Neighbors.....Emma Knapp
 A Speech in Congress.....
Carl Pemberton
 The Defense of Lucknow.....
Sewell Newhouse
 The Shooting of Dan Magrew....
Alfred Haworth
 Columbus.....Leroy Frazier
 The Old Man and Jim.....
Mary Pennington
 The Cremation of Sam Magee....
Margaret Hodson
 The Old Woodbox....Howard Elliott

The College department of Pacific College entertained in honor of the two High School Seniors, Clara Hall and Llewellyn Sanderman, and the fourth year preps, Saturday evening, May 31, in Wood-Mar Hall. An interesting feature of the evening's entertainment was a mock trial which proved very amusing. After the trial, groups presented charades. Light refreshments were served in the Library.

The reception to the Seniors given by President and Mrs. Pennington Friday evening, May 30, was well attended. The Academy and Commercial students were received from eight to nine and the College students from nine to ten o'clock. Punch and wafers were served by the Fourth year Academy girls.

initiation, except that they showed a peculiar reluctance to sit down for some time. After the new members had been taken into the company, it developed that two members who received letters last year had not been initiated, so the ceremony was repeated with them as principals. The refreshment committee then stepped in with weenies, buns, pickles and pie, which were devoured in short order.

The letter club has not been very large this year, but will undoubtedly be more active next year, as athletics are expected to revive somewhat then. The three new members gained their letters in base ball and were Hubert Armstrong, Brooks Terrell and Murray Gregory.

of events. One can live a long time and not live very much, and again one may live a great deal in a short time.

Rev. Pollard showed the Oriental's conception of this phrase in that time was of little account to him; it was by events he reckoned time, and thus he conceived of life as a bundle of events. There is much in this thought that is of extreme value now. The college student has lived much in the last few years, and has a great work. Life must be made to count in events; in deeds; in work, and in the greatest of all work: Christian work.

A quartet composed of Dora Dunbar, Eva Miles, Murray Gregory and Harold Lee rendered special music, after which the service was closed.

Tuesday afternoon after the Academy Commencement exercises the lady members of the faculty entertained in the parlors of Canyon Hall in honor of the Senior girls. The guests were given the initials of the Senior girls and asked to write telegrams of congratulation or advice to them. Delight Carter and Dora Dunbar sang a duet; Mary Pennington gave a reading; and Eva Miles and Aubrey Lemon each sang a solo. Delicious cake and punch were served.

The College-Alumni base ball game was played Saturday afternoon, between showers. The College team won the game by a large score—it was not kept exactly but it probably was about 23 to 3.

Dr. Hester caught for the Alumni and got hurt quite badly during the game. Meade Elliott played first, Dwight Coulson second, Victor Rees short stop and Walter Woodward third.
