SUDDEN DEATH TAKES STUDENT

Leon Dinsmore, Prep., Succumbs to Pneumonia

The news of the death of Leon Dinsmore, a student in Pacific Academy, came as a severe shock to members of the student body and to his many friends elsewhere. Although he had been seriously ill for some time, it was thought that he was entirely out of danger, and was on the road to a speedy recovery. A relapse came, however, and he died on the morning of Saturday, Mar. 6. Leon was exceedingly well liked throughout the college community. He had a fine faculty for making friendships, and although this was his first year here, his cheery good nature and his extraordinary talents made him sincerely loved.

Before coming to Pacific, Leon made his home with a married sister at Mills City, Oregon, where he had moved following the death of his father in Seattle some years before. He resided at the dormitory while here in school, although when his illness became serious he was moved to the home of Mrs. Kaufman, who cared for him until his mother arrived. One of his sisters, Ruth Dinsmore, was also a student of Pacific College previous to Leon's death. The living relatives of the deceased are his mother, two sisters and his step-father.

The funeral services, held in the Friends church Sunday afternoon, were very simple and impressive. After an invocation by Rev. Coffee, of the Free Methodist church, Rev. Carter addressed the gathering of friends of the deceased, and brought a message of resignation and comfort to the relatives.

The body of the young man has been sent to Seattle for interment, owing to the fact that his father is buried there.

BASE BALL PROSPECTS

In the spring a young man's fancy lightly turns to thoughts of base ball. And anyone happening to be in the neighborhood of the college diamond at the right time of day during the recent good weather could have seen a bit of fancy work. First year preps and dignified college seniors and everything between, could have been seen wildly gesticulating and

LIFE WORK RECRUITING TEAM VISITS THE CAMPUS

Friends Deputation Team Stops Four Days at Pacific on Tour of Friends Colleges

In the interest of the Forward Movement among Friends in America a deputation team of five prominent Friends visited the college for four days, March fourth to seventh. The deputation has visited all the Friends colleges in America with the purpose of assisting the students to decide upon their life work. Each member of the team had a particular field of work concerning which they could inform the students. Ruthanna M. Simms, formerly assistant editor of The American Friend, and now secretary to the General Secretary of the Five Years Meeting of Friends, had Home Missions as her particular field. At the chapel service Thursday morning and in various personal conferences with the students, she presented the need for Christian workers among the negroes, Indians, immigrants and foreign population and in general social service work.

Ellison R. Purdy, pastor of the Friends church at Minneapolis, Minnesota, and chairman of the Board of Home Missions of the Five Years Meeting, presented the claims of the ministry as a life work. He, too, had conferences with various students and presented the call to preach during the chapel service Friday. He emphasized the fact that every vocation may be a high and holy calling but that the ministry is particularly so. The preacher is often looked down upon, but in times of crisis it is to the ministers of God that men turn. The minister is an important factor in moulding the life of his community so "rejoice and be glad if you are called to the ministry."

Clarence E. Pickett, executive secretary of the Board of Young Friends' Activities of the Five Years Meeting, and leader of the Deputation, presented vocations in general and particularly those calling for Christian young men and women. A great many of the students had conferences with him and found his call to service very helpful and inspiring.

B. Willis Beede, educational secretary of the Five Years Board of Foreign Missions, presented the call to work on the foreign field. In addition to the conferences with students in which several expressed their desire and determination to devote themselves to carrying the gospel to those less fortunate than they, he gave an illustrated lecture Friday evening on "The World We Live In." The lecture and slides presented the conditions of the non-Christian world as they are at the present time. Those who heard the lecture were impressed anew with the immense field for service in the foreign mission work.

The American Friends Service Committee was represented by Howard H. Brinton, publicity man for the committee. He not only told of the work already accomplished and that now under way, but outlined the future plans of the committee. It is expected that work will be undertaken in Mexico and Russia as soon as possible. He also explained the openings for work in prisons, industrial schools and similar institutions. He explained the "give a year in Christian service" plan by which it is hoped that the young people among Friends may be influenced to give a year to some definite Christian work upon the completion of their college training.

Aside from the work done by the team at the college among the students several of the members spoke in other meetings. Not only the students but the church as well feel that Pacific has been greatly favored by the presence of the Deputation. The inspiration which they imparted will last long after they have gone.

Much credit is due the cabinets of the Y. M. C. A. and Y. W. C. A. for the very efficient manner in which they looked after the interests of the Deputation.

Anna Mills' brother-in-law, Arthur Fisher, was visiting in Newberg Monday. He left for Idaho again that evening.

MEN'S LITERARY CLUB REORGANIZED

First Program Arouses a Great Deal of Interest

The Agoreton Club, the men's literary society of Pacific College, has been officially revived and reorganized, and has resumed an important place among extra-curriculum activities. Although there has been no men's organization in this line for the past two years, some of the men who have been members before are in school, and a large number of new men are taking a strong interest in the club.

A meeting was called for organization on March 1, it having been decided to resume the constitution of the old Agoreton with some revisions. The following officers were elected for the term of the ensuing semester: Addison Kaufman, president; Paul Elliott, vice president; Murray Gregory, secretary; Vernon Bush, treasurer; George Upton, marshal.

The first regular meeting of the club was held in the Y. M. C. A. room Monday evening, March 8. The program was very interesting, although owing to the illness of one of the members one of the numbers could not be given. The first number was a speech by Murray Gregory in which he set forth the advantages and benefits to be gained from the

CABINETS GIVE LUNCHEON

In honor of the Life Recruiting Deputation Team of the Five Years Meeting, the association cabinets met in a joint luncheon Thursday evening in the Y. W. C. A. room.

Sharply at 6:15, the company seated themselves around a large rectangular table and paused while Clarence Pickett invoked God's blessing on the life and work of the associations. To get acquainted in such a group was accomplished almost before the first course had been served and soon all were talking and chatting as if they had always been acquainted.

The team, composed of five members, Agoreton. A 10-minute parliamentary drill conducted by Zenas Perisho was very lively and the cause of much discussion. The critic spent most of the time searching feverish-

EDITORIAL

The Crescent staff owes an apology to the students and the other subscribers to the Crescent for the delay in issuing this number which should have come out two weeks ago. It seemed practically impossible to put out the regular issue as the editor, associate editor, and a majority of the staff were afflicted with the flu or la grippe and were absent from school from one to three weeks. We hope that the new staff which will be chosen Tuesday will be able to get out each number on the day set.

Pacific feels that she is being very ably represented in oratory this year, Chisung Pil, who represented the college in the Old Line Contest held at Pacific University, giving a splendid oration on "Korea's Appeal for Freedom." Pacific also feels that she was in a measure represented in the Indiana contest for Mary Pennington, who graduates from Earlham this year, won second place there. Mary Pennington went through the Academy and three years of college at Pacific and is well known to many of the students.

As this is very probably the last number put out by the present staff the editor wishes to take this opportunity to thank those who have given much of their time and energy to making the Crescent a success this year. Particular mention is due the associate editor who did good, consistent work throughout his term. The other members of the staff, though several were inexperienced when they took up the work, have proved very willing and have produced fine results. One who has never been on the staff cannot realize the responsibility and work which the editing of even a school paper entails. What little the Crescent may have improved this year, and we believe that the Crescent ought to get better every year, has been due to the splendid co-operation of the staff.

BASE BALL PROSPECTS

arguing their way through the intrinsic and involved technicalities of modern workup.

This, however, is only the natural outlet for the large amount of base ball enthusiasm which is in the atmosphere around P. C. this year. The cause of this enthusiasm is the presence in school of much good base ball material. With five of last year's team back and two old letter men in school, there is the foundation of a good team. Besides these there is an abundance of new material and some of the letter men are apt to have a rude awakening if they think they have their places "cinched."

The position of pitcher will probably be the hardest place to fill as none of the old twirlers are in school this year, but judging from the number of fellows who have been developing "double action" arms in practice, the man who gets the job will be a good one.

With the amount of good material on hand, if a suitable coach can be found P. C. should have a championship team this year.

The World Fellowship Committee of the college Y. W. C. A. is planning a treat for the college community in the preparation and presentation of a short play, "It Happened in Japan." It is a clever little play showing the present condition of the women of Japan. All the parts are being taken by members of the student body. Beside the play proper a trio by three girls in Japanese costumes is being prepared and also a Japanese drill composed of eight girls. No one will want to miss the entertainment thus provided for Friday evening, March the nineteenth.

A birthday party for Elizabeth Wheeler was given at Prof. Lewis' table, Friday, the 5th. Nineteen candles blazed on one cake. While the participants of the party were reading some clever verses, another table began to sing the college song, which naturally caused some commotion. After that the party proceeded uninterrupted to the last crumb.

AIN'T IT FUNNY?

The editor of this column wishes to announce that if anyone has any good new jokes, they would gratefully received. He has almost exhausted all the funny columns in the library magazines.

Copies of "Life" will also be gratefully accepted. Oftentimes they contain something very funny, even if it is unintentional.

Those speckles on the Academy study hall windows are positively dangerous. Someone might look in from the outside and have the school quarantined for chickenpox.

Fresh Student—"Yes, sir, I'm on my way to see her now."

Minor Premise—I'm not the tail of an ass.

Conclusion—I must be no end of an ass.—Yale Record.

We notice that Addison Kaufman has been elected president of the Agoreton Club. Sort of a yell leader, as it were.

"She dropped her fork in the pan of rice, and cried bitterly, swallowing her tears."—Ibanez.

We consider this a dramatic moment.

One of the most interesting men on the Yale faculty is Prof. Brewer, of the Scientific department. Men who have studied under him declare that there is no subject on which he is not a complete authority.

They tell at Yale of a student who once posted himself on some esoteric Chinese subject by reading a recondite encyclopaedic article, and, fully primed, sought to "stick" the Professor. Professor Brewer talked familiarly on the subject but, to the student's delight, expressed views radically different from the encyclopaedia's.

"You must admit that you are wrong for once, Professor," said the student, triumphantly. "I have looked the matter up and So-and-So's encyclopaedia utterly disagrees with you."

"Very true," said the Professor, composedly, "but a great deal of information has come to light that has changed my mind completely since I wrote that article for the encyclopaedia you mention."—From The Man in the Street.

Walt Mason, the poet philosopher, says he has more work to do than he could do if he were twins. The old boy has nothing on some of us that missed school lately.

We've often thought a life of ease, One that would be quite hoppy, Bill Kennedy sold his Blue Bug a week ago to some party out of town.

Lowell Edwards attended the wedding of Lois Wilson, of McMinville, on February 28. He says it was a wonderful performance and intends to try it himself some day.

Eva Miles has returned from her home in Salem after a prolonged siege of "Flu." Most of her family were also quarantined with her and she says the absolute rest and profound quiet were extremely comforting.

Horace Terrell and Cecil R. Hinshaw made a flying trip to Portland Sunday evening to speed Mr. Purdy and Mr. Beede on their trip east. They had a great many adventures in the moonlight and returned to their respective homes about 12:30.

Miss Marlatt did not meet her classes the first of the week because of the death of her father which occurred last Sunday. Mr. Lewis attended the funeral service held Wednesday afternoon in Portland.

Miss Addie Wright, head of the History department, was recently called to her home at Fairmount, Indiana, because of the severe illness of her father. She resigned her position here and search was at once begun for an instructor to take her place. Miss Mary Marlott, a teacher in the Woodburn High School, was finally elected, giving up her position in Woodburn to accept the offer here. Although the students were very sorry to have Miss Wright leave, they find Miss Marlott a very agreeable addition to the faculty.

The banquet planned by the Y. M. C. A. and Y. W. C. A. for Saturday evening, March 6, in honor of the Deputation Team, was called off because of the death of Leon Dinsmore.

Those who bought tickets for the concert to be given by the girls' glee club are no doubt wondering if they are ever to be given a chance to use them. Because of the illness of so many of the members of the club the program had to be postponed. If the plans now made are carried out the concert will be given within the next two weeks. Beside several numbers by the club a song by four of the girls in costume, some piano solos by Miss Miles and cello solos by Mr. Hull are planned. Watch for further announcements for the date and be sure those tickets are in a place where they can easily be found.

The patience of "Nurse Miles" was sorely tried more than once at the demands of her charges during the dormitory "Flu" siege. When they were on liquid diet, urgent requests came from all quarters for pickles, coffee, weenies, oranges and milk toast. One in particular became quite violent when informed that his meal was only a glass of milk. However, all is over now and the parties engaged in that lawful combat with the "Persistent Germ" are mostly well and cramming knowledge to make up for lost time.

bers, brought greetings from Friends' University, Nebraska Central and Whittier Colleges, all of which they had visited within the last few weeks. The relating of some of the enjoyable incidents which happened along the way, coupled with several impromptu toasts, added much to the occasion.

The beginning of one of the inspirational addresses at 7:30 in the auditorium cut the luncheon short but judging from all reports, the hour would be pronounced a decided success and several voiced the opinion that they should like to see several such get-together times during the school year.

Those who heard the Old Fashioned Girls who gave a recent number of the Lyceum say that they certainly did credit to Bess Gearhart Morrison, their coach.

Vernon Bush met with a severe accident at the mill Saturday. He was driving a team of horses and suddenly collided with an approaching lumber truck. The result was a seriously broken collar bone.

A number of new tumblers were introduced into the dining room of the dormitory. Strange to say, the old, cracked, chipped, over-sized, under-sized, unsanitary and rimmed receptacles were drummed into the fruit house never to return, 'tis hoped.

ORATION GIVEN

On Thursday morning, a special chapel was held. Chisung Pil, who is to represent us at the State Oratorical Contest Friday night, gave his oration with great fervor. He spoke of Korea, telling of the almost insufferable Japanese rule under which Korea has been for the last ten years. While the Peace Conference was being held in Paris, the people of Korea declared their independence. There was no violence done by the Koreans, but they were mercilessly massacred, tortured, or thrown into prison by the Japanese soldiers.

Korea is crying out for justice. Who will help her?

Eleven million young men were sacrificed, the armies of Great Britain and America crossed over to France, to save the oppressed people of the world. But Korea is still oppressed! She is appealing to the Christian world, which has given men money and time to carry the gospel to Korea, for help. She is appealing to the Council of the Ellis Beals gave a very pleasing vocal selection in French, and Addison Kaufman read a humorous selection, which closed the program. Without exception, the new members of the club expressed themselves pleased with the meeting, and a great deal of benefit as well as entertainment is expected from the society. At present only fifteen men have become members, but this membership is expected to be materially increased within the time for the next few meetings.

Mrs. Lorena Keeney Wright died recently of pneumonia following an attack of the flu. Both Mr. and Mrs. Wright were formerly students in the college and were well-known among the college students.
