State Oratorical Contest at P. C. March 10

P. C. WINS OVER ALBANY BUT LOSES DEBATE TO LINFIELD

Albany Defeats Linfield.—All Affirmative Teams Victors.—P. C. Shows Up Well.

In the triangular debate held on February 18 by Albany, Linfield and Pacific colleges, P. C. won over Albany by a two to one decision at Pacific, and lost to Linfield by the same margin at McMinnville. Albany won over Linfield at Albany by the unanimous vote of the judges and therefore claims highest honors, while P. C. takes second place.

The subject for the debate was: "Resolved, that the United States should assume no new political responsibility in Europe or Asia except where the purpose is mainly the protection of American interests." "New responsibilities" was agreed to mean any assumed since December 10, and "American interests," American life and property. The affirmative team debated at home in each case and won in each case.

Volena Green and Vera Jenks, Albany's representatives, met Cecil F. Hinshaw and Davis Woodward here. Prof. Amos C. Stanbrough, superintendent of Newberg schools, presided. The visitors presented their side of the argument with more spirit and vigor than logic. The more careful organization of the affirmative argument undoubtedly won the debate.

At McMinnville Pacific's team was composed of Clara V. Calkins and Helen Hester; Linfield's representatives were Sylvester Cross and Oscar Gladish. In this debate the decision seemed to be given on the strength of delivery rather than on the logic of the argument, and in consequence the Pacific College representatives suffered. The fact that the affirmative won in every case also gives evidence that the ability of the debaters should not be judged entirely by the decision.

The girls from P. C. went to McMinnville early in the evening and were welcomed very courteously and given every attention which thoughtfulness could prompt. Several members of the faculty, some of the students, and members of the debaters' families attended the debate at Linfield and felt proud of the work done by P. C.'s representatives there.

Miss Mary Pennington spoke in chapel last Friday, basing her talk on the words of a professor who wrote on a student's theme "good enough to be better." She pointed out the analogy between a theme and a life. Either may be poorly planned or devoted to trivialities or may show carelessness as to the smaller points of technique. One's life should be planned and worked out under the wise direction of the Great Teacher.

P. C. Will Entertain Students From Eight Oregon Institutions at Annual I. O. A. O. Contest

C. F. Hinshaw Will Represent P. C.—Executive Staff Making Extensive Preparations.—Entertainment, Banquet and Program Plans Are Now Well Under Way.

Nine Institutions to Take Part

Pacific College will entertain the Inter-collegiate Oratorical Association of Oregon on March 10. The annual oratorical contest will be held at Wood-Mar hall on the evening of that day. Willamette University, University of Oregon, Eugene Bible University, Oregon Agricultural College, Oregon State Normal, Linfield College, Albany College, Pacific University and Pacific College will have representatives in the contest.

C. F. Hinshaw to Represent Pacific

Cecil F. Hinshaw will represent Pacific in the contest and will give his oration, "The Star of Peace," which in its original form won the local contest. Mr. Hinshaw is a speaker of some experience; he has represented the College in debate two succeeding years and was a member of the winning team here on the 18th of February when Pacific met Albany College.

The program director, Eva Miles, has arranged to vary the program with some especially good musical numbers to be given by members of the student body, and the auditorium decorating committee has plans well under way for making the chapel a very charming place in which to listen to the orators.

At Least 100 Guests Expected

Since each school is entitled to send numerous delegates the executive staff is preparing for the entertainment of not fewer than one-hundred guests. Thanks to the careful and early work done by Harriett Hodgkin, president of the oratorical association, in organizing her workers, visiting students can expect to be well taken care of. Hubert Armstrong is general manager of the following committees: The Information committee, headed by Clara Calkins, which will arrange for the entertainment of the visitors in various Newberg homes; the Town committee, with Cassius Carter as chairman, which will meet guests at the city station; and the College committee, under the supervision of Ellis Beals, to meet the guests at the college station. Lucille Clough, the chairman of the tourist committee will attend to showing the visitors over the buildings; Walter Cook is head of the General Service committee and will do all the last minute rushing.

Anna Mills is the manager of the banquet and decorations. Flora Campbell, Beth Paulson, Cecil Goodrich, Richard Haworth and Mary Elliott are the under officials. Daisee Leffler has charge of the printing and advertising.

Banquet Will be Held in Legion Hall

The contest will be held in the auditorium of Wood-Mar at 7:30, March 10. After the contest proper, which will close quite late, there will be a banquet held in the Legion hall, for the delegates and college students. The Ladies Auxiliary of Pacific College have been engaged to prepare the food. There will be at least 150 at the banquet.

Prize Will be Gold Medal

The winner of the contest will be awarded a gold medal, valued at $25. This is the sum of money agreed on by the association. The medal will be awarded at the close of the contest by the president. The design of the medal has been made hitherto by the college which entertained the delegates. It is hoped that a satisfactory design will be made some time that will be suitable for all time.

GIRLS' HIKING CLUB BEGINS ENTHUSIASTICALLY

The girls' hiking club, which was organized on February 14, is composed of nearly 30 members of the girls' athletic association. They have chosen Miss Muri Clarke as coach, Beth Paulsen as director and Louise Nelson as secretary.

The girls' athletic association will award gold Q's to those girls who hike 300 miles. Since four letters or three letters and graduation wins a sweater, and since few letters have been awarded to girls in the past,

NEWBERG WINS TWO FIRE PREVENTION TROPHIES

Tuesday, February 21, was set aside as firemen's trophy presentation day in Newberg, to give honor to Newberg's fire fighters, who have proved themselves the best in the state. All classes were dismissed after 2 o'clock that the students might attend the exercises of the day.

At least 1500 people gathered to fill the Friends church to its utmost capacity. Besides the local firemen, fire officials and men of note from every part of the state were present.

Varsity Team Takes Game From Philomath.—Loses at Albany and Linfield

Poor shooting by Pacific and long passing by Albany resulted in a 26-10 defeat for the Quakers in their contest at Albany College. Although outclassing her opponents in passing and floor work the visitors were unable to locate the hoop very many times. H. Terrell, though only playing a little more than half the game, was star for the Quakers, annexing eight of the ten points.

Albany's hoopers, unable to pass through the visiting team's defense, resorted to long passes, which gave them most of their points. Daniels played the best ball for the home team.

The Philomath contest was played to a different tune, with Pacific carrying off the long end of the score. From the first whistle to the last the visitors had the lead and were never in danger. The small gym made the game fast and interesting, with only a few fouls called. H. Terrell was high point man again, with seven field baskets to his credit. A. Terrell running him a close second, obtained 12 points, and Cook four. A better brand of ball than usual was displayed by all members of the squad, with their team work and defense working to perfection. With Armstrong, Elliott and Carter holding up the defense, Philomath found it difficult to get a shot at the hoop. The first half ended with a 18-7 lead for the Quakers.

Philomath, not expecting the style of game the visitors put on, were at a loss to know how to stop them. Haskins for the home quintet was high point man.

THE LAST WORD

The attempt which the editor of a college paper must make to satisfy the expectations of student body and interpret the spirit of the school is often attended by disappointments. But if honestly made, the same attempt also brings rewards—appreciation of responsibility, new experience, finer literary discrimination, and broader acquaintance with members of the college community.

However well or ill I have served them I wish to thank my fellow students for the opportunity of winning these rewards. I also wish to suggest some things for their consideration before the new staff takes charge.

It is no more a foolish whim for the editor to wish to have the copy in time to read and edit it carefully than it is for the student to want the Crescent on the day it is due.

The Crescent comes out very nearly on time unless there is some good reason for its being late. There are ways of finding when it is due other than asking the editor, who has troubles enough, and who doesn't know how many the printer may be having.

It is a source of wonder to an editor to see the same folks reading the paper avidly and criticizing it freely, who a few days previously showed no interest whatever in its success.

The Crescent needs better organization and more reporters, but it must have loyal supporters and wise friends. The reporter who does all his share and part of what someone else should have done can never be forgotten by the editor. The student who helps with suggestions and contributions is a friend in need. The faculty member who is interested in the progress of the paper and who gives both praise and criticism is a source of more encouragement than he knows.

You want an editor with pep and originality and discrimination, but you must not expect him to do his work tirelessly and perfectly if you allow him to feel that no one cares what he does or how he does it until he does it wrong.

FROM THE BUSINESS END

Did you ever stop to think that it takes money to publish the Crescent? Do you know that the largest part of the money comes from the business men of Newberg in payment for advertisements? During the past year the Crescent has never wanted funds and we wish to take this opportunity to thank the business men for their splendid backing.

Since this is the last issue under the present staff, we wish to say as parting advice: If you wish to show your loyalty to the Crescent, to P. C., and to Newberg, patronize the advertisers and let them know that you please them and make the work of the new business manager much easier.

CECIL F. HINSHAW,
DAVIS WOODWARD,
Business Managers.

THE ELECTIONS

Elections at P. C. are about to be held, and since offices are many and the students few, some thought should be expended on filling the offices of the student body. It had better be expended before elections than afterward.

The president of the Y. M. C. A. of the Y. W. C. A. and of the student body are usually chosen from the junior class. It is usually inadvisable, therefore, to choose many other important officers from that same small group. The special duties of seniors can well fill the time of the remaining members next year.

The editor of the Crescent is usually chosen from the sophomore class. He thus has a considerable knowledge of school affairs to begin with, and the work does not last beyond his junior year. Logically his assistant should be chosen from the freshman class.

Clearly the question in choosing officers is not one of popularity, not entirely one of ability even. What must be considered is the difficulty of distributing labor and responsibility as evenly as possible. Student body election comes on March 6. Be ready.

C. R. HINSHAW FOR EDITOR?

Who will be the next editor of the Crescent? This is a question which should be interesting every P. C. student, in view of the fact that the student body elections will be held March 6 and the next Crescent will be put out by the new editor.

Someone should be chosen who has literary ability, who is aggressive and original, who has the confidence of the students, and who is well acquainted with the traditions of the school. For four consecutive years the editors of the Crescent have been women and many are feeling that this year a man should be chosen for the position.

One of the men in school who has the necessary qualifications is Cecil R. Hinshaw. Mr. Hinshaw has spent two years at Pacific and is a member of the sophomore class. He certainly is one of those to whom the student body should consider giving the responsibility and the honor of the editorship of the Crescent.

HIGH SCHOOL BAND BENEFIT PROGRAM VARIED

Rather a small, but appreciative audience gathered in Wood-Mar Hall Wednesday evening, February 22, to hear the band concert given for the benefit of the high school band. Because of the illness of some expected to participate, the program was not as complete as had been planned, but the numbers were all well rendered, and much credit should be given the high school for the successful program, which was as follows:

Overture, Berrian band; short talk by Superintendent A. C. Stanbrough; two numbers by Pacific College orchestra; flute solo, J. F. Knight of Portland; "Plantation Melodies," by Berrian band; reading, Miss Margaret Anderson; selections, high school band; reading, Robert Brown; tableau and pantomime, "National Emblems," by high school dramatic club, Miss Hadley singing "Columbia the Gem of the Ocean"; selection by Berrian band.

The staff for managing the oratorical contest was so well organized by the president some time ago that plans are pretty thoroughly worked out and the work well under way.

they welcome with enthusiasm this new opportunity for winning athletic honors.

The rules of the club require that no distance less than two miles be counted on a girl's mileage record, and that each girl makes at least half of her three hundred miles with the club.

The club has already taken several hikes and a schedule will be made and followed which will make it possible for the most zealous to win a letter this semester. In addition to the numerous hikes taken between four and six o'clock on school day afternoons, longer Saturday hikes are being planned.

Judging from the sentiments borne by the small red hearts which identified the members of the new club on February 13 and 14, Pacific College girls are heartily in love with hiking and with gold Q's. Incidentally more vigorous exercise is expected to lessen susceptibility to flu and prevent spring breakdowns.

FRIENDS CHOIR ENTERTAINED AT W. E. TERRELL HOME

The members of the Friends church choir greatly appreciated the cheerful atmosphere of the W. E. Terrell home as the setting for the weekly choir practice Thursday evening.

After an unusually successful effort at their task on the part of the visitors, a pleasant social hour was spent in which Mrs. Terrell demonstrated her ability as a delightful hostess. Dainty refreshments were served and after a last visit to the fireplace, the guests departed with warmth in their hearts for the Terrells more than sufficient to overcome the chilly outside breezes.

Penn College won double honors in their forensics this year. Ruth Kirk won third place in the Iowa State Oratorical contest, held Friday Feb. 17, and Winifred Allee won third place in the extempore speaking contest.

The Indiana State Oratorical contest was held at Earlham, for the first time, on February 24. The orator for Earlham was Vernon Hinshaw. His subject was, "The Crisis." The winner of the contest has not yet been announced.

AMONG OURSELVES

Harriett Hodgkin and Daisee Leffler made a trip to Portland Saturday on business for the oratorical contest.

Saturday evening was the date for a dorm party. Several out of town visitors were present. The earlier part of the evening was occupied in playing flinch and rook on the kitchen and dining room tables. All this time taffy was boiling on the big range. At a later hour the pulling process was undertaken. Although some batches were not the purest of white, or the crispest, or exhibited all the other prerequisites, the sweetness was pronounced the only essential.

The editors received the verified word that Orlando Warner has grown a mustache. It was suggested that the senior men inquire of him regarding the fearful process.

Here is another shady word. The tinkle of wedding bells may be heard some time during vacation. It is one of our number. 'Mum's' the word!

Glenn Gulley and Mervin Elford entered the Newberg high school as sophomores.

C'mon, and vent your spring feelings in singing. A song practice at 12:45 every day this week. Aw, C'mon.

C. S. Pil and Robert Shinn were guests to dinner at the M. P. Elliot home Sunday.

Olive Armstrong and Walter Cook held a joint birthday party at Miss Clarke's table. The celebration included pie a la mode and birthday cake.

Kanyon Hall was a quiet place over the week end. Eva Miles, Adella Armstrong and Elizabeth Wheeler attended the state C. E. convention at Salem, while many others spent the week end at their homes.

Lemon flavored divinity helps to overcome that lonesome feeling. Ask Cecil if he doesn't think so.

The commercial students who took up office training at the beginning of this semester are finding it a very helpful and interesting subject.

The daily speed tests are very helpful toward increasing the speed of the typists in the commercial department.

Other attractions are proving too strong for the men of bachelor hall. Only one faithful man showed up for parlor evening, Tuesday night.

Olive Armstrong received a lovely valentine cake for her birthday. Everyone looked at the work of art with an awed expression.

The song and stunts committee is doing very faithful work in practicing the new pep songs for the oratorical contest and in teaching them to the rest of the students.

ATHLETIC PROSPECTS GOOD

The sunshiny days of late have started the baseball interest oozing and incidentally it might be said that the outlook is not nearly as dark as it might be. The eight letter men, Elliott, H. Terrell, Carter, Pil, Perisho, Cook, Armstrong and Everest ought to make a good starter for a winning team to say nothing of the undiscovered talent which is always present and only needs training to make perfect. The equipment for the coming year has all been purchased and Captain Pil says, (the weather permitting) practice will begin on or near the 14th of March.

The prospect for tennis is quite bright as both last year's letter men are back, besides some very promising younger players who without doubt will press them hard for a place on the team.

Considering all, Pacific will surely do her part in the spring athletics among the independent colleges of Oregon.

Professor Perisho recently gave a chapel talk on the value of a name. Herbert Hoover was recently offered a position at a large salary. One reason for the offer may be found in the importance of his name. It stands for ability and trustworthiness.

The connotations of a name depend on him who bears it. The individual has the opportunity of making his name famous or honored. Similarly the honor of the college name is in the keeping of its students and alumni, the name of the church in the keeping of its members. What the name American means to those of other nations is determined by those who bear it.

Monday evening at 7:00 p. m. the Agoreton literary held its regular meeting in the college auditorium.

A general outline of the past history of the Agoreton was given by Cecil Pearson as the opening number. He spoke of the variety of form in the programs of the past and plainly showed how, although the society has not always had a great many members, by means of the interest taken, good literary programs have been given.

The Siamese twins (Cecil F. and Cecil R. Hinshaw) rendered a whistling duet, which was enjoyed by all members.

Virgil Hinshaw spoke on the life, character, the habits, and the work of one of the world's greatest authors and historians of today, H. G. Wells. The material was well handled and the society benefited very much by his talk.

Born, to Profesor R. W. and Mrs. Lewis on February 18, a daughter, Francis Irene.

The sprained ankle that Horace Terrell sustained in the last few minutes of the Linfield game kept him at home for several days. It is almost well now.

Thanks to the house and grounds committee of the auxiliary, the stage of the auditorium is graced with a new curtain. That is, it is new for all practical purposes, for no one outside the secret would know that the faded side was turned in and the braid sewed on the bright side.

P. C. students honored the father of their country by working on his birthday. President Pennington, however, gave a very fitting talk in chapel on some of the virtues of Washington. He gave the same address at the high school.

Prof. Lewis was absent the latter part of last week and the first of this on account of the flu. His entire family are down with the same malady.

She—Did you ever see a feminine curiosity?

He—They're all curiosities to me.

Prof. Shattuck announced that he intended giving an intelligence test in psychology class. The class registered suspense and foreboding. "You needn't be afraid that I will try to prove that any of you are feeble-minded," he said reassuringly, "I know already." Psychology teaches us that the slip of the tongue expresses one's real thoughts.

An Academy girl was studying her history lesson at home one day when the three-year-old became interested in the pictures.

"Who's that a picture of?"

"James II."

"Hum, it doesn't look like him."

"Miss Leffler do you believe in mental telepathy?"

"Why?"

"I just wondered."

"Keep it up."

She—I'm sorry, but I don't love you enough to marry you—but I'll always be a sister to you.

He—Not a chance. The family's over crowded now.—Life.

The largest senior class in the history of Penn College will graduate in the spring, with a membership of fifty-two.

NEWBERG WINS TROPHIES

The Berrian band opened the program with two selections and the local Whitney boys' chorus of 150 voices gave three selections.

Mayor Calkins gave an address of welcome which was followed by short addresses by Jay W. Stevens and A. C. Barber. The flag trophy won by the fire department was accepted by Chief Sherlock. The main address of the occasion was given by State Corporation Commissioner Thomas Handley. He laid emphasis upon the greatness of the honor which Newberg had won and explained the considerations upon which the award had been made. The honor for this distinction, he said, might well be claimed by the firemen themselves, the children of the schools, or the people of the town. Certainly they all had a part in winning it.

The second flag was presented to Superintendent A. C. Stanbrough of the Newberg public schools, who gave a speech of acceptance.

Later in the afternoon the Newberg fire department gave an exhibition fire drill program, which a large crowd of people appreciated. At 6:30 in the evening the prominent men of Newberg and the guests of honor from various points enjoyed a splendid banquet in the Legion hall.

EVERY TREFIAN GIRL HAS PART IN LAST PROGRAM

Many and various were the criticisms and suggestions given by the Trefian members Wednesday, February 22, as their names were called from the roll. The suggestions ranged all the way from a spring fashion program to the study of parliamentary law, and the program committee need not worry about novel programs for the rest of the year. Besides this extraordinary part of the program, in which each girl took part, was a stringed trio by Eva Miles, Mary Pennington and Lucille Johnson; a piano solo by Helen Baird, and a musical recitation by Mary Shirley and June Whitlock, who impersonated a shy young maiden and a gallant knight. At the close of the program the girls all sang several of the new college songs under the leadership of Gladys Scott.

Y. W. HEAR VALUABLE TALKS

The World's Fellowship committee of the Y. W. is conducting a series of meetings on "Make the World Your Hobby." President Pennington spoke February 15, with the motto of the committee as his subject. Human beings are naturally self-centered, partly because they have their own problems and work to do and forget that many of their problems are common to all. But the man who withholds his strength is not he who is the strongest. Through exercise an athlete gains in strength and ability. So in life, "There is that scattereth and yet increaseth, there is that withholdeth and that tendeth to poverty." By striving to work out world problems, one's strength is increased to overcome personal problems. In closing, President Pennington mentioned three important reasons why we should think in world terms: to make ourselves what we should be; to make our own problems grow smaller; and to interest those about us in world problems.

The Y. W. was fortunate in securing Mrs. Millie R. Trumbull last Wednesday to speak to the girls on the subject, "The Woman in Industry." Mrs. Trumbull is the secretary of the Board of Inspectors of Child Labor in Oregon. After speaking of some of the reasons why women of today are in business, she pled that the college girl would do all in her power to make life more pleasant for the working girl. The fact that some girls are fortunate enough to attend college is no sign that they are superior to the girls or young women who possibly have had to sacrifice their ambitions to earn their living, and the college girl should overcome the feeling of snobbery which is so prevalent.
