HULLS ENTERTAIN IN LAST LYCEUM NUMBER

Local Artists Give Fine Concert to Appreciative Audience

The Hull concert company appeared as the closing number of the Lyceum course on the local platform Thursday evening, Feb. 16. The program consisted of numbers for the strings, vocal numbers and dramatic reading by Professor Hull, accompanied at the piano by Mrs. Hull. The talent of the entire concert has not been surpassed by any of the outside talent which has been brought in during the entire course.

The evening program began and terminated with numbers by the strings, in which the cello was played by Professor Hull, violins by Herbert Owen and Clifton Parrett, with Mrs. Hull at the piano. No piano solo work was done by Mrs. Hull but her work as accompanist was an outstanding feature of the program. Other outstanding numbers were Professor Hull's vocal solo, "Danny Deever," by Kipling, and his musical reading, "The Highwayman" by Noyes. Both numbers were interpreted and presented as only Professor Hull can do.

Entirely different from these tragic numbers was the group of songs sang by Professor Hull which were based upon Kipling's "Just So" stories, which included "Fifty North and Forty West," "The Race that Was Run by the Boomer" and "Camillea Hump." He responded delightfully with an encore, "Six Honest Serving Men."

The closing numbers by the strings were from Mac Dowell and Kreisler and concluded a pleasant evening of high class entertainment.

FROZEN BODY IN LAKE

Rochester, N. Y., Feb. 21.—(UP)—Dr. Richard A. Leonardo, coroner, knows why coroners grow gray.

Recently, Leonardo received a phone call: "Hurry, hurry, coroner, there's a body in the raceway, frozen in the ice under the Central Avenue bridge."

He dropped the phone, grabbed his derby and heavy overcoat and started for the scene, calling for John J. Meagher, morgue inspector on his way.

Peering down, they saw the body frozen in the ice. Long ladders were put down from the bridge and a fireman was designated to chop the ice away from the body. A long hook was fastened into the ice cake containing the body and it was dragged ashore.

When the body finally was extracted, it was discovered to be a scarecrow.—Whittier News.

PACIFIC GIRLS WIN FROM LINFIELD COLLEGE TEAM

As a curtain raiser to the basketball game between Linfield and Pacific men's teams last Friday night, February 24, the Pacific girls' team won a hotly contested game from the Linfield girls 16-13.

Both teams were quite evenly matched but the local girls were more consistent in finding the hoop.

In the first half of the game the Quaker lassies successfully worked their plays, baffling the Linfield players completely and running up a score of 14 to 5.

The tables turned in the last canto of play and the McMinnville girls started a rally which closed up the gap in the score to a close margin. This was checked when Roberts, Pacific right forward, made a field goal which apparently broke the jinx, and from then on the local girls exhibited their former spirit which held the visitors from further scoring.

Credit is due all of the Pacific girls that played, as each held down her position very successfully.

The line-up:

|----------------------|---|----------------|
| Pacific—16 | | 13—Linfield |
| E. Roberts (12)..... | F | (5) T. Stretch |
| M. Davey (4)..... | F | A. Maloney |

BIRTHDAY DINNER GIVEN

A delightful occasion occurred at the dormitory dining hall when a February birthday dinner, honoring Ralph Choate, and a valentine dinner were combined on the evening of Valentine day. The courses and table decorations were in keeping with the day, and the sumptuous dinner had been prepared as only Mrs. Schmidt could prepare it. Heart-shaped salads, wee baskets of heart candies, and nuts with appropriate place cards were found at each place. The entire dinner from the heart-shaped salad to the heart-shaped deserts was a most delightful affair. "Valentine to Everybody" came from Mrs. Schmidt in the form of a heart-shaped cake. Invited guests at the dinner were Miss Eva Miles and Miss Mary Sutton.

ONE ACT PLAY GIVEN AT LAST STUDENT CHAPEL

The student chapel proved very interesting Thursday. Singing was led by Frank Cole, and Stanley Kendall brought a very helpful lesson for devotions concerning the trial of Jesus before Pilate.

The main portion of the chapel period was taken up with a very interesting and amusing play entitled, "Elovements While You Wait." The cast of characters were as follows:

|-----------------|------------------|
| Silvette | Bernice Carlisle |
| Dick | Robert Whitlock |
| Percy | Joseph Silver |
| Aunt Jane | May Cooper |

Silvette was wooed by two lovers; Dick, who was a practical fellow, and Percy, who was of an exceedingly poetic temperament. The two lovers met under Silvette's window at the same time and there followed a discussion between the three about who was to marry Silvette. Robert is victor eventually, and of course Percy is very disappointed. The play ends when Aunt Jane throws a bucket of water on Percy, who immediately makes a hasty exit, feeling that his poetic nature has been rudely crushed.

RETURN INDIA MISSIONARY

SPEAKS TO Y. W. GROUP

The Y. W. girls were very interested in hearing Miss Louisa Lee tell about the missionary work in India, on Wednesday, February 15. Miss Lee is now on furlough after many years of service in India.

She and one other missionary have worked among the 200,000 people near and around Kanary, and the last two years they have labored for more land with the view of building a new station. The land was obtained but the buildings could not be erected because of protest and the city is still waiting for this. Miss Lee emphasized the fact that any hesitancy on the part of those in the homeland in carrying on the missionary enterprise is keenly felt by the missionaries who are working abroad.

In regard to the general opinion that the caste system is breaking up in India, Miss Lee said, "Except where Jesus has gone, the caste system is not breaking—it is strengthening, if anything. Child-marriage and other heathen customs still continue to blight India. Women are still in bondage except in those few places where the gospel of Jesus Christ has shed its light."

At the present time there is only one missionary left in a city with a population of 18,000. The need is great, and nothing but the love of Jesus can meet the need, she concluded.

JUNIORS HAVE SURPRISE PARTY

The members of the Junior class hiked to the home of Mr. and Mrs. Milo Elliott on Tuesday evening, the occasion being to surprise Velda Livingston and William Sweet, honoring their birthday. Fortunately the young people were both found present when their friends arrived. The evening was spent in chatting and playing old familiar games, after which refreshments were served. An old friend of the class, Donnie Smith, was among those present.

QUAKER HOOPSTERS LOSE TO LINFIELD

Varsity Basketball Stage Noble Rally to Check Early Lead

Linfield College defeated Pacific College on the local floor last Friday night by a score of 42-37. A better account of the game could be given by the score according to halves. The first half ended 33-16 for Linfield and the second half ended 21-9 for Pacific.

The game started rather slowly but Linfield soon started dribbling in and shooting baskets or else shooting from a short way out, and suffice it to say a good share of them went in. Pacific kept slowly adding to their score until the half ended.

The second half proved to be a very different story. For a while the two teams battled evenly but Pacific was using fresh men who soon discovered where their basket was and promptly proceeded to fill it up time and again. This furnished the necessary thriller for the crowd and even the Linfield followers and squad were beginning to tear their hair and do many other antics that are excusable in the excitement of a basketball game when with about two minutes to go Pacific was but three points behind. Just before the end of the game Stensland, who was high-point man for the game, got another field goal and the game ended 42-37 for Linfield.

This was the last game this season for the local boys.

The line-up:

| | | |
|--------------------|---|----------------|
| Pacific— | | —Linfield |
| Cole (5)..... | F | (15) Stensland |
| Sweet (2)..... | F | (4) Martin |
| M. Brown (11)..... | C | (9) Finlay |
| L. Baker (8)..... | G | (10) Agee |
| Trueblood (1)..... | G | (4) Hostettler |

Substitutions: For Pacific—Schmoe (6), S. Brown (2), Haworth (2); for Linfield—Harris, Gwin, Booth, Beard, Phillips.

Referee—Newman.

SOPHOMORES SPONSOR MIX

The annual Sophomore "out-of-town" party was given Saturday evening, Feb. 18, in an old uninhabited house on Chealem Mountain.

Upon arriving the group gathered around the fireplace. Lunch was served consisting of baked beans, potato salad, pickles, sandwiches, cookies and bananas. The rest of the evening was devoted to giving stunts, playing games, telling lies, roasting marshmallows, and popping corn. The party was delightfully finished off with some rousing songs.

The class invited as guests: Bernice Carlisle, Sanford Brown, Mabel Kendall, Othel Schmoe, Erroll Michener, Joseph Silver, Richard Haworth, May Cooper, Beryl Hale, Arloene Davey, Olive Kendall, Esther Roberts, Elmore Jackson, Ralph Choate, Generva Street, Alida Wilson, Ivor Jones, Clare Howard of Newberg, and Ruth Wright of Portland.

The party was very ably chaperoned by Prof. and Mrs. R. W. Lewis.

EDITOR'S FAREWELL

Writing an Editor's farewell is not an easy task, nor is it especially a pleasant one. Like any other thing with which a person has been closely connected and then leaves, there are always regrets, and I believe there should be where the association has been a helpful and pleasant one.

I wish to express my sincere appreciation to the members of the staff for the splendid way in which they have assisted me, and to the associate editor. Each has shown himself capable of the trust and duty that has been his for the past year. Much credit is also due the managers who have very successfully placed the Crescent on a firm financial basis, and it is my hope that the newly elected managers will do as well.

I wish to thank any other contributors to the Crescent who are not on the regular staff, but who have in times past been of great assistance in making the Crescent what it is.

Editing the Crescent has been a source of pleasure and experience to me, although many times the pleasures were embodied in the word "work." May the aspiring candidates to this office in the future realize that it means "work" and plenty of it, rather than an illusioned idea that it is like sleeping in a bed of roses without the thorns.

In closing I wish to ask the members of the student body to bear in mind that you are the ones that elect the students to office, and not the students themselves. Consequently if you elect an officer, or an officer is elected by a majority, it is your duty to support them in every way. If the majority have made a poor choice, it will prove itself, but usually these selections have been carefully made and should be respected until another election gives you a chance to put in your choice. Take the bitter with the sweet.

Wishing the future editors the best of success with the Crescent, and wishing success to a "Greater Pacific" in years to come,

Sincerely,
Editor.

THANK!

Someone has to do it! Last March at the Student Body elections I was given the honor of being elected Assistant Editor to Philip Gatch. I hope you have enjoyed the Crescent in the past year and I hope that I have done my share of the work satisfactorily. I want to thank the Student Body of Pacific College for the privilege of being connected with the Crescent and hope that we can have just as good or better Crescent next year.
Asst. Editor.

MAJOR TRADITIONS

Our old traditions were to be enforced this year. In view of this fact, students should refrain from picking flowers on the front campus, wearing paths through the lawn, walking into Wood-Mar Hall at the south door between 8 a. m. and 4 p. m.; and fussing at intercollegiate games. The "fussing" rule should include the library. When we enter the library we think of Noah's ark; of the animals coming in two by two. Students with those "besetting" faults may become rid of them, because they might find themselves in a state in which they don't wish to sit.

However, we do not write this article to call attention to those minor traditions. Do we let the minor traditions hide the major traditions of "Pacific?" Do we hide the real purpose of Pacific, which since its very foundation has been: "A liberal education under the best Christian influence?" Do we pass our four years here untouched by this Christian influence, rich perhaps in knowledge, but poor in Christian character, poor in those constructive habits which should have remained with us through life? Have we let those minor matters keep us from maintaining and developing our Christian life and from our close devotion to our Master?

WASHINGTON

O noble brow, so wise in thought!
O heart, so true— O soul unbought!
O eye, so keen to pierce the night,
And guide the "ship of state" aright.
O life, so simple, grand and fine,
The humblest still may turn to thee,
O King, uncrowned! O prince of men!
When shall we see thy like again?
The century, just passed away,
Has felt the impress of thy sway,
While youthful hearts have stronger grown
And made thy patriot zeal their own.
In marble hall or lowly cot,
Thy name hath never been forgot.
The world itself is richer, far,
For the clear shining of a star,
And loyal hearts in years to run
Shall turn to thee, O Washington!

FOREIGN PASTURES

Lake Forest, Ill. (New Student Service).—While an occasional editor now is kept busy trying to explain to a critical communicant why the college paper limits itself to campus happenings, the editor of The Stentor of Lake Forest college, has tried to explain to the student council why he doesn't restrict his paper to the campus exclusively.

The editor, Fred Genschmer, who gently ignored the council's first summons to discuss the paper's policy, was informed that he is "only an appointee of the council and subject to its action." As reported in The Stentor:

"The council point of view was epitomized by Mr. Macklin who stated that the students were not interested in literary and technical matters appearing in various columns; that more items of local interest should be covered; and that the news should be written down to the interest of the readers. The Student Council further contended that not enough space was being devoted to important student activities, such as the Junior Prom, athletic events, etc. In answer to these arguments the editor pointed out the growing tendency in modern colleges to outgrow provincialism; that it is by far easier to fill up a paper with accounts of events with which every reader is already acquainted; that news articles were purposely condensed so as to get a wider range of subjects; and that the students might voice their opinions in letters appearing in the paper. The Council, however, contended that the school paper should be more a matter of record than of student opinion or comment."

The meeting ended in a deadlock, and The Stentor is still grazing in foreign pastures.

"IF—FOR GIRLS"

If you can hear the whispering about you
And never yield to deal in whispers too;
If you can bravely smile when loved ones doubt you,
And never doubt in turn what loved ones do;

If you can keep a sweet and gentle spirit
In spite of fame or fortune, rank or place,
And though you win your goal or only near it—

Can win with poise or lose with equal grace.

If you can meet with unbelief, believing,
And hallow in your heart a simple creed;

If you can meet deception, undeceiving,
And learn to look to God for all your need;

If you can be what girls should be to Mothers—
Chums in joy and comrades in distress,
And be unto others as you'd have the others be unto you—

No more, and yet, no less.

If you can keep within your heart the power to say
That firm, unconquerable No;

If you can brave a present shadowed hour,
Rather than to build a future woe;

If you can love, yet not let loving master,
But keep yourself within your own self's clasp,

And let not dreaming lead you to disaster,
Nor pity's fascination loose your grasp.

If you can lock your heart on confidences,
Nor ever needlessly in turn confide;

If you can put behind you all pretenses
Of mock humility, or foolish pride;

If you can keep the simple homely virtue
Of walking right with God,
Then have no fear that anything in all the world can hurt you—

And which is more—you'll be a Woman, dear.

B. H.: "And you found it?"

Bud: "Well, rather. I'm in the hole now."

Chuck: "Did you get rid of any moths with those moth-balls you bought?"

Mildred: "No. I tried for four hours, but I couldn't hit a one."

Weesner: "Ralph, what is one-half of one-tenth?"

Ralph: "I don't know exactly, but it can't be very much."

Fortune Teller: "Your husband will be brave, generous, handsome and rich."

Listner: "How wonderful! Now tell me, how can I get rid of the one I have now?"

Joseph (tentatively): "How would you like a husband who writes blank verse?"

Bernice (with candor): "I'd really rather have one who writes blank checks."

THEY ARE STILL GOOD

Hurray for gifts of old magazines! The library has just received a gift of the Ladies' Home Journal dating back ten years or more. No doubt many can realize what valuable research material is stored up in these magazines. Besides continued stories, editorials, fashions and cooking hints, are suggestions for entertainments such as plays, games for special occasions, etc. The library is most grateful for gifts of this kind. If other friends of the college have magazine files that are in the way, just give them to the library and valuable use can be made of them.

SHORT STORY COLUMN

A LESSON IN PEP

It was the first football game of the season and the bleachers were full to overflowing. From faculty to freshies the entire school had turned out. Pacific was playing Reed and Pacific had to win. Dick Warren, the yell leader and Senior president, had told them that at frequent intervals throughout the afternoon.

Now Dick stood on the ground before the bleachers and led the student body through the all too familiar yells and songs while Pacific struggled heroically for victory. On the top seat of the bleachers sat Mabel Dean, daintily clad in pink voile, and now and then Dick Warren's eye caught a glimpse of her as she enthusiastically applauded the players. Those glimpses sent a thrill through him and put fresh vigor into his yelling as he shouted hoarsely to the mass of students above him, "Come on, ever' body, let 'er go. Nine for the Team."

Rather weakly the students complied and then settled languidly into their seats again to await the outcome of the game.

Dick turned disgustedly to the principal. "Say, that's the rottenest bunch of yellers I ever saw. Why, they haven't got any more pep than a bunch of—of—" Here Dick paused to search for a word to express himself. "—than a bunch of chickens," he finished despairingly. "The upper classmen are not so bad, but those Freshmen, oh, gee!" and he gave a gesture indicating that he washed his hands of the entire affair.

Pacific won after a long, hard fight, and the next day a rally assembly was called to celebrate the victory. Dick was called on to make a speech, and as he rose to his feet a flash of pink and a pair of blue eyes disentangled themselves from the blur of color before him and put a note of confidence into his voice as he began his speech.

"Everybody knows that that was a close game yesterday, and it was a wonder that we won at all the way you fellows yelled. Say, it was awful, especially you freshmen. You're bigger in numbers than any other class in school and had ought to be able to yell twice as loud; but instead you sound like a bunch of sick kittens. I was never so embarrassed in my life as I was yesterday when you were yelling. What will Reed say about this? Why, this will get out all over the country, and our good reputation will be ruined forever. If you little freshies can't yell any better than that, you'd better go home to your mothers and stay there. Pep! That's what we want around here, and lots of it. You'd better learn that right now, because we won't have a bunch of slackers hanging 'round this school." Here Dick stopped abruptly and went to his seat.

Bud Foster, the freshman president, on the front row, scribbled something hastily on a piece of paper and passed it down the line of freshmen beside him.

That night promptly at 8 o'clock Dick emerged from his home and made his way down the street. His figure was clad in black broadcloth and his heart was clad in ecstasy. Before his eyes danced a vision of a dainty figure in pink with starry blue eyes and fluffy brown hair, of a comfortable living room with an open fireplace and two easy chairs drawn close up to it and then, perhaps at the end of the evening, ice cream and cake.

At the corner he turned into a dark alley. His thoughts were still on the pleasant evening before him, when suddenly he felt himself seized from behind.

ABOUT THE CAMPUS

Eunice Paynton, a commercial student, spent the week end at the home of her parents in Carlton.

William Peck missed the first of last week owing to a severe cold.

Student chapel February 16 consisted mostly of a student body business meeting. Clare Howard led the singing, and devotions were led by Wendell Hutchens.

The Fourth years have decided upon a play to be presented for the approval of the faculty. So far, so good.

Edward Baker, a member of the Fourth year class, has been absent from school for a week owing to illness.

Wendell Hutchens and Homer Hester have had charge of Mr. Mather's classes during the latter's absence.

The members of the Senior class are very glad that a new member has joined them, and we all welcome Mary Mills heartily, and hope that she will enjoy her association with us.

On Tuesday evening, Feb. 21, the members of the Senior class enjoyed an informal dinner at Wood-Mar hall. The table was decorated in white. At the conclusion of the dinner an enjoyable hour was spent in discussing matters pertaining to the Senior class.

"DREAMS THAT COME TRUE"

Let's wander once more
To a fair dreamland shore;
Get a ship with a good trusty crew,
And then take a trip
On this wonderful ship
To the land called "Dreams That Come True."

We'll adventure far
O'er the bright golden bar
In search, over waters so blue,
Of a cargo of dreams;
Found only, it seems,
In the Highlands of "Dreams That Come True."

We must make preparations
For such explorations,
No matter how far we pursue.
Unless faith we show
In our dreams, don't you know,
We'll find nothing in "Dreams That Come True."

We'll be true to life,
Though it only be strife;
Hard lessons come easy to you
Who but prepare
With the greatest of care
And believe in "Dreams That Come True."

Y. M. C. A. CORNER

Rev. Carey, pastor of the Newberg Friends church, gave a very helpful talk to the Y. M. C. A., Feb. 15, on the influence of a man's thinking on his life. He read for his scripture passage, "Finally, brethren, whatsoever things are honest, whatsoever things are just, whatsoever things are pure, whatsoever things are lovely, whatsoever things are of good report; if there be any virtue, and if there be any praise, think on these things."

When one hears a story of that sort, it is projected into the mind and it will remain there as long as a person lives. The truest saint of God has in his or her mind all the smutty stories which he or she has ever heard. The only remedy for anyone wishing to forget such things is to bury them by those things mentioned in the text. Any man who uses smutty talk should be boycotted, continued Mr. Carey with extreme earnestness. Shun every foul story—shun the man who repeats them, for the things that are placed in the mind determine the character. The speaker concluded his message by saying, "Whether Christian or not or whether you ever intend to become one, you can't afford to fill your minds with foul thoughts." C. B.

THE ABUNDANCE OF LOVE

"O God, I love Thee in the stars at night
Under the still eternity of sky;
Teach me to love Thee in the passer-by,
For Thou hast said that this is loving right.
I hear Thee in the stars whose silence sings,
And in the shout of dawn Thy voice I know;
Teach me to hear Thee in the joy and woe
Of men who speak of trivial earthly things.
I see Thee when the world is full of sleep
Walking upon the moon-path of the sea;
Teach me by all the tears of Calvary
To know Thee in the eyes of all that weep.
There are so many things that I would say,
God-soul of beauty, teach me how to pray!"

Thus should each of us pray that God should help us to see Him in the beauty of nature and in all things that are human. And never should we allow ourselves to forget the fact that there is a real connection between the suffering of Calvary and the suffering of the men and women near us and those that are in distant parts of the earth and that Christ appreciated the joys of all men and women. May Christ's love so fill us that we may know that in helping to do away with the suffering of mankind and increasing the joys of man that we are "loving right," not only our fellow men but Christ himself. The essence of Christ's teaching is that we should "love one another as He has loved us," and if we have failed in this, our religion does not amount to much, no matter what we may believe or say. We should all endeavor to acquaint ourselves with the conditions under which people have to live in all parts of the world, in other words "study to show ourselves approved of God," and with the joy that we get from understanding others and of service for others we can sing as the poet sings:

"What song shall I sing to the heavens?
My heart is bounding with music;
I want to pour out my praise to the everlasting heights;
For the gift of life is apparent; so with wings I am lifted;
And the love of my heart goes forth to the ends of the earth,

PROF. LEWIS GIVES TALK

Professor Lewis spoke to the students in chapel about James Whitcomb Riley and his literary work, on Friday, February 17. The career of the poet was reviewed briefly with particular attention to his career as "people's laureate." Any poet who has amused, consoled, and instructed as many people as has Riley is not negligible, and while he may not be as much in vogue as he was a few years ago, he is still widely read. A good deal of sound philosophy is given us in the humorous as well as the serious verse of this Hoosier. Few writers have written so well of the wisdom of childhood, the joys of the fire-side, and the value of friendship.

P. C. GIRLS WIN FROM N. H. S.

The P. C. girls' basket ball team defeated the Newberg High School girls' team 16-13 on the P. C. floor February 16. Both teams were evenly matched and only by consistent team work were the Pacific girls able to win.

The line-up was:

A BOLT FROM THE BLUE

"Like a bolt from the blue" is an old, familiar saying; but how many have ever seen lightning strike from a clear sky, or believe such a thing possible.

A flash of lightning out of a clear sky starting a forest fire,—this rare phenomenon was seen by Lige Coleman of the Y. M. C. A. camp at Spirit Lake, Columbia National Forest, Washington, early last summer. The sky was perfectly clear, and no thunder was heard. The lightning set a forest fire and the smoke was seen for about an hour. Luckily there was from four to six feet of snow where the fire started, and the relative humidity was high, so it did little damage.

Lightning seemed to have a particular liking for the Columbia National Forest last summer. Out of the total of 78 forest fires, 64 were caused by lightning. This was most unusual. Most of the lightning fires occurred within a few days, and were caused by storms on three successive afternoons.

The ranger dreads lightning fires, because they cannot be prevented and often start in very inaccessible places. Luckily, in the average year the lightning fire percentage is small. Most of the fires are man-caused, and could be prevented by an educated, aroused public.—U. S. Forest Service.
