COLLEGE INSTRUCTORS HOLD CONFERENCE

Independent Colleges of Oregon Send Delegates to P. C.

The twenty-second annual conference of the Association of Independent Colleges of Oregon was held with Pacific College as host Friday and Saturday, November 25 and 26, with perhaps the largest attendance in the history of the organization.

Under the direction of President J. W. Burkett of Philomath College, head of the association, the following program was given, each of the subjects presented calling out vigorous and profitable discussion: "The Field of the Small College" by President C. W. Greene of Albany College; discussion led by President L. W. Riley of Linfield College.

"The Race Prejudice Problem" by Professor S. B. Laughlin of Willamette University; discussion led by President Levi T. Pennington of Pacific College.

"Honor Courses: The Problem of the Capable Student" by Professor G. B. Noble of Reed College; discussion led by President Carl G. Doney of Willamette University.

"Possibilities of the Small College for Extension Work" by Director Edward L. Clark of the Oregon Institute of Technology.

"The Use of the Seminar Method with Undergraduate Students" by Professor L. W. Griffin of Reed College.

The largest crowd of the conference was present Friday evening for the address of President J. F. Dobbs of Pacific University, who spoke on the subject, "New Worlds for Old."

Friday evening Pacific College served dinner to the guests and local faculty members, and nearly seventy-five partook of a delicious banquet prepared by the Woman's Auxiliary to Pacific College. At the close of the meal President Pennington was toastmaster for an absolutely impromptu program, no speaker knowing that he was to be called upon until his name was actually mentioned, and each one being given his subject as he arose to speak. The topics on which (or perhaps from which) the speeches were made and the speakers were as follows:

"If you were not who you are, who'd you rather be?"—President J. W. Burkett, Philomath College.

"The worst break I ever made, and how I got out of it"—President Carl G. Doney, Willamette University.

"Education—if any"—C. A. Howard, Superintendent of Public Instruction.

FENWICK NEWELL ARTISTS PLEASE LARGE AUDIENCE

The Fenwick Newell company appeared on the local lyceum platform Monday evening, Nov. 21, and delighted the audience with a splendid program. Fenwick Newell and his company became very popular with local patrons and this was the third appearance here within a period of a few years.

Mr. Newell has a most pleasing tenor voice of remarkable range, exceptional quality and sustaining power; and the evident ease with which he rendered his most difficult numbers marked him as the outstanding member of the company. Undoubtedly the gracious manner of response when requested to sing Kreisler's "The Old Refrain" and Strickland's "My Lindy Lou," pleased the entire audience, for hearty applause broke out e'er the last note had died away. But whether in this semi popular songs or in the difficult selection from Carmen, Newell won everyone by his pleasing personality as well as the splendid rendition of the songs.

A most finished artist on his instrument was Raymond McCune, violinist. He not only accompanied Mr. Newell in "Carmen" and "Italian Street Song," but delighted the audience with his solo work in Chopin's "E Flat Nocturn" and Brahms' "Waltz in A Major." The most enthusiastically received of his encore numbers was Nevih's "Rosary."

Miss Adelle Eschweil, soprano, not only appeared in several duets with Mr. Newell but also sang a number of solo

FIRST STUDENT CHAPEL

The first student chapel of the year was held Thursday, December 1, at the college. This was the first of a series of these meetings which will be conducted by the students every Thursday at the chapel hour, until the end of the semester.

The assembly singing was conducted by Philip Gatch, following which a devotional period was led by Charles Beals. A short student body meeting followed, at which time the student delegates to the Student Volunteer Convention at Detroit, Michigan, were announced.

The students and faculty were then entertained with two very pleasing saxophone duets, given by Martha and Esther Mueller and accompanied by Wilma Cornell at the piano. Donald Crozer, college yell king, delighted the audience with two very amusing readings, for which he is to be complimented on his self expression and pleasing stage manner.

Y. W. HOLDS GOSSIP MEETING

The girls held a very interesting Y. W. meeting on Wednesday, November 30. At the beginning of the meeting Lolita Hinshaw and Ila Tozier rendered a pleasing vocal duet. After a devotional period led by Lolita Hinshaw, the meeting was in charge of Rachel Lundquist, who gave a brief talk on the subject of "Gossip." The remainder of the time was spent in listening to several different phases of this subject which were very interesting and helpful. These talks were given by the different members: Mrs. Hodgkin, Della Hanville, Elizabeth Carey, Rosa Aebischer, Edna Ralston, and Lela Gulley. G. H.

PACIFIC HAS GOOD BASKET BALL PROSPECTS

The prospects for college basket ball are brighter than they have been for many years here at Pacific. There are seven lettermen to use as the backbone of the team and there are several new men who show signs of becoming real players.

Coach Armstrong thinks that the Quakers look good enough to place at at the top end of the conference ladder this year. He says the men are practicing hard and watching their training rules well. All this is conducive to producing a winning team.

The schedule includes eight games and there will probably be several non-conference games for practice. Linfield, Albany, Monmouth, and probably Ashland Normal and Mt. Angel will be in the league. There is some doubt about Mt. Angel at present but if they put out a team, Pacific will play them.

On the 9th of December, Pacific will play the first game of the season against the First Presbyterian Church team of Portland. From all that can be found out about them they are an all star team of no mean reputation. This is a non-conference tilt and will be a test of the Quaker hoopsters.

D. O. C.

TRAVELING SECRETARY SPEAKS

Bruce Gray, traveling secretary for the Student Volunteer Movement, spoke to the students at the college chapel hour, November 28. Mr. Gray's speech consisted mainly in outlining a short history, and the purpose of the Student Volunteer movement. His statements embody the following thought:

The movement was started by a group of men, including such men as Mott, Speer, and Eddy, who felt the call to volunteer their lives to definite Christian service. The organization has continually grown. Up to the present time eleven thousand, five hundred volunteers have gone to the mission field.

The three aims of the S. V. M. are: foreign work, in which the workers are to be Christian witnesses abroad; home work; and equal responsibility on the part of everyone who wishes to further the Kingdom of Christ.

The latter part of Mr. Gray's speech was in explaining the S. V. convention to be held in Detroit, Michigan, during the Christmas holidays. In this convention three thousand, five hundred students will meet and discuss the relation of present day missions to world conditions. There is a struggle today between materialism and Christianity, and this convention will be a great help in endeavoring to further the cause of Christianity against the many things seeking to hinder its growth. L. H.

STOP! LOOK! LISTEN!

Program! Basket Ball Game! Old Student Reunion, and More Fun! Friday night, December 30, at the college. Don't forget the date.

WOMEN'S AUXILIARY SPONSORS FAIR

College Students Entertain Last Saturday Evening

The Woman's Auxiliary to Pacific College sponsored the annual Community Fair which was held on Dec. 1, 2, 3, in the Legion Hall. The fair was very well attended by the people of, and represented by the merchants of Newberg and surrounding communities.

The hall was beautifully decorated in gala colors. Many attractive booths set up by local merchants, organizations and nearby townships were in evidence both upstairs and down. Representatives of these booths worked untiringly and very few patrons of the fair got away without securing their share of the "literature."

Meals were served downstairs in appetizing style, or, if preferred, the usual kinds of tasty home-made candy and pop corn could be secured.

Very pleasing programs were given each night. On December first a community program consisting of artists from Rex, Dundee, Chehalem Center, St. Paul, and Springbrook was given. The program consisted of many musical numbers and two playlets.

The following night, December second, the public schools and the high school of Newberg gave a very delightful and varied program. The numbers were enjoyed by those in attendance from start to finish.

On the final night, December third, the college gave a program consisting of musical numbers and a one-act play. The entire program was well received. The College Men's Glee Club, directed by Alexander Hull, made its initial appearance, singing, "Little Grey Home in the West" and "Roll Along, Cowboy!" The cast of "Flittermouse" and all those taking part in the musical numbers should be complimented on the splendid talent shown in the respective lines of each.

The program as given by the college was:

- Faculty Male Quartet
- Marionettes—Bartlett, Beryl Hale, Joseph Silver
- Road to Mandalay—Speaks, Wendell Hutchens
- Snowdrops—Lehmann, and O Lovely

ACADEMY LOSES TO WILLAMINA

The Academy quintet met the Willamina basket ball team in the P. C. gymnasium November 25th, and took the little end of a 26 to 10 score. The Academy was unable to score for some strange reason, and the other team had a hitting streak which netted them twelve field goals to the Academy's five. The Willamina aggregation seemed to be a little bit faster on the breaks, and though the Academy checked well, seemed a little better on position.

STUDENT VOLUNTEERS

It only comes once in four years!

The Student Volunteer Convention is a great convention held to discuss a great work—Peace. This year the convention will be held at Detroit, but the number will be smaller than previously. Only 3500 representatives will be allowed to attend. Pacific has the honor of having three delegates, two students and one faculty member, to represent their college in this convention.

What is the rest of the Student Body going to do? Sit around and look on? Nod their heads with approval of the work others are doing to raise necessary expenses of sending our delegates? No. Let's get right in and help raise our share of the money needed.

We sincerely hope that this convention will be a big success in carrying on God's work. If it doesn't—then we don't want it to be Pacific's fault. Boost!

A PROGRESSIVE PACIFIC

The first student chapel, which was held Thursday, December 1, was a marked success in many ways. It showed that the students are capable of conducting a very pleasing and orderly chapel period, which is both entertaining and educational to the students and faculty.

With the evident available talent among the students of Pacific, the program committee should have little trouble in securing worth-while entertainment every Thursday.

Students, this is your chapel period each week, and if asked to contribute in some way, do it with a will; for without the wholehearted cooperation of every student, this weekly performance will fail to accomplish its purpose. Pacific students are becoming more progressive as the years pass, which is due perhaps to the improved methods of education and thinking, and it is hoped that the new movement of student chapel will be a success for the whole year.

There is but one requirement, and that is not a hard one; namely: Lend your support, and do your bit!

DON'TS FOR THE FRESHIE

Don't waste your time looking out of the window, you will see enough of the world when you grow up to be a senior.

Don't fall in love with the faculty if they should happen to smile at you, they really don't mean it.

Don't fail to agree with your instructor in every way, as it has a vital effect upon the grade slips.

Don't attempt using a pony unless you are sure of your ability to ride it safely through.

ENGLISH FACTS

I cannot shingle the roof of my mouth
Or fit to my chest a key;
Or fasten my soul with a finger nail,
Or wash the pan of my knee.

There are no diamonds set in my crown;
I'm glad when my face is tanned.

Though near to a son, I never sit
In the shade of the palm of my hand.

I often lift the lid of my eye,
I've locks all over my head,

A tongue, but never a wagon nigh,
A mouth but no river bed.

Two pupils bright in my eyes you'll find,
Two canines white in my teeth,

An apple (Adam's) lodged in my throat
And a hart in a pen beneath.

—L. Mitchell Thornton

THE FOUNTAIN PEN

Only a tube of rubber
Holding a pen of gold,
Through which some drops
Of blue black ink
Do good, or harm, untold.

You may write to cheer and comfort
Or mar the lives of men;
Burden or brighten,
Blacken or lighten—
Which way do you use your pen?

Is it fountain of joy,
Sending only good news?
Comfort and cheer
May be brought near,
If you let the Master use it.

—J. T. Spicer.

GASTON BEATS ACADEMY 18 TO 6 AT GASTON

The Academy basket ball team went to Gaston November 18th and met the Gaston hoopsters in the new Gaston gym, losing 18 to 6. Neither team had practiced more than once or twice together and the game was rather rough. The Academy shot much more than the Gaston boys but could not seem to find the basket. There were many fouls called on both sides, and as the Academy could not convert and the Gastonians could, this soon ran up the score. The P. A. boys have resolved to pay Gaston back with an equal but opposite score in the return canto.

The lineup for the Academy was: Forwards, Moore, Neal; center, Sutton; guards, Peck, Sandoz, and Schmeltzer.

Two Old Maids went for a tramp in the woods, but the tramp escaped.

USE NO HOOKS

Once upon a time a Library Book was overhead talking to a little boy who had just borrowed it, and this is what it said:

"Please don't handle me with dirty hands. I should feel ashamed to be seen when the next little boy borrowed me.

"Or leave me out in the rain. Books can catch cold as well as children.

"Or make marks on me with your pen or pencil. It would spoil my looks.

"Or lean on me with your elbows when you are reading me. It hurts.

"Or open me and lay my face down on the table. You wouldn't like to be treated so.

"Or put between my leaves a pencil or anything thicker than a single sheet of thin paper. It would strain my back.

Whenever you are through reading me, if you are afraid of losing your place, don't turn down the corner of one of my leaves, but have a neat little Book Mark to put in where you stop, and then close me and lay me down on my side so that I may have a good rest.

"Remember that I want to visit a great many other boys and girls after you are through with me.

"Besides, I may meet you again some day, and you would be sorry to see me looking old and torn and soiled. Help to keep me fresh and clean, and I will help you to be happy."

FENWICK NEWELL ARTISTS PLEASE LARGE AUDIENCE

numbers, among which were "The Memory," "It Is Not Because Your Heart Is Mine," "The False Prophet," and a selection from the opera "Cavalleria Rusticana." Though Miss Eschwei received more popular criticism than any other member of the company, it must be said that her voice possessed great tone color and quality, was of wide clear range and was perfectly controlled.

Miss Madge Williamson, pianist, played only one group of solo numbers but her faultless accompaniment for each number of the evening's program bespoke her accomplishment. Her solo numbers were Lizt's arrangement of the quartet from Rigoletto, "Under the Tree," and Percy Grainger's arrangement of "Turkey in the Straw."

In closing, all four members of the company participated in "Only a Rose" from the opera, "The Vagabond," by Friml.

The enthusiasm with which the Fenwick Newell Concert Company is always received here bespeaks their ability to "make friends" with an audience through their performance. Not only before an audience is this so but it has been said by those who have become personally acquainted with them during their short stay here that they are to be placed highest in a personal manner of any visiting company.

THREE THINGS THAT EDUCATION SHOULD DO FOR THE INDIVIDUAL

There are at least three things that education should do for the individual. First, education should develop life. By this we mean, education should train and develop in a systematic and orderly way all the intellectual faculties of the mind. The memory should be trained; the imagination should be trained to sympathize with the clean and beautiful things of life. Judgment should be developed so that the individual will be sound and safe in his conclusions; reason should receive careful attention in order that every problem may be carefully analyzed; the ability to translate knowledge into deeds in the daily process of life is of supreme importance; the power to think clearly is vital to success in life. If we can train people to think honestly and to speak honestly, the chances are that they will live honestly. Intellectual dishonesty is a public menace. An education that fails to emphasize the supreme importance of intellectual honesty fails in its purpose. The basis of correct living is honesty. The success of the individual in real life depends not so much upon what he knows, but upon his disposition to use honestly what he does know. It is clearly evident from the crimes that are committed and the violations of law in various forms that something must be done to train the generation of today to be intellectually honest; to be true to recognize standards of conduct and life and to be fair and square in all human relationship. Education has, indeed, a big program just along this particular line.

Second, education should develop a strong physical life. Physical education has an important place in our modern education system. The youth of today should be taught to live clean physical lives. Cleanliness is the first simple step in physical education. In fact, one way to keep well is to give the body a daily cleansing externally and internally by the proper use of water. Water is God's medicine. Athletics, also, have an important place in the development of the physical life. A sound educational policy provides for systematic and well regulated daily training and instruction for every student along the lines of physical education. Such a program is sane, sound and sensible. It makes for a clean physical life.

Third, education must develop the spiritual life. This is the highest function of education. Man is a spiritual being and if he is to live a useful life, he must grow and develop along spiritual lines. Character is organized soul power. You cannot develop a character that stands the test of life unless it is built upon a spiritual foundation. God must have a place in our educational system. The leaders of thought today stand firmly for character that is built upon a spiritual basis. The teacher is charged with the responsibility of teaching literature, history, economics, science, and all other subjects, in line with the spiritual conception of life. The largest freedom of life comes through spiritual enlightenment. It is clearly evident that education serves its true purpose in developing the spiritual life. The community is enriched by training of this kind; society is made safe and secure; and the state and the nation are strengthened.

If it were possible for the educational forces of the nation during the coming years to work harmoniously along these lines wonderful results would be secured for the American people.—Wesley W. Lindahl in Ex.

DORMITORY BOYS ENTERTAIN

The men of the dormitory held open house on Saturday evening, Nov. 19, to the girls of Canyon Hall and a few invited friends. The guests were greeted with a large sign which bore in huge letters, "No Hunting Allowed on These Premises," and followed the guides who took them to each room. Maggie and Jiggs were also present purring sweetly to each guest who called. Whether due to the mistletoe which hung in the dimly lit hall, or the kiss, or the blinding flash which followed, it is not known, but Rae hasn't been the same since. Anyway she learned not to persist in knocking on doors bearing the sign, "Fresh Paint."

"I Can't Afford Christmas Gifts This Year"

"I can't afford Christmas gifts this year." How often we hear it as we hurry thru the crowded streets, and how sad and untrue it is after all.

People who can't afford Christmas are indeed bankrupt—bereft of the only things that make Life worthwhile, kindness of heart, happy unselfish thoughts and tender dreams. After all, just what is a Christmas gift? Is it something—any sort of thing—wrapped up in tinsel and broad red ribbon? You can remove the price tag from such a gift, but you cannot hide the poverty of heart that is responsible for it.

Can't afford Christmas! Ah! Don't say it. Let your gift be only a simple nosegay, a gay, painted toy or a cheery greeting. Make it as simple or as expensive as you will, but give.

"The gift without the giver is bare." It is an old rule, but it has stood the test of years. Don't forget it this Christmas.

COLLEGE INSTRUCTORS HOLD CONFERENCE

"What I would do if I were a Chinaman"—President Norman F. Coleman, Reed College.

"Aviation and Molehills"—Director Clark, Oregon Institute of Technology.

"Rain"—Dean R. R. Hewitt, Willamette University.

"Solid Ivory"—Professor Wallace H. Lee, Albany College.

"Foreign Language Study, Prohibition, and Evolution"—Mrs. C. W. Greene, Albany College.

"The Music of the Spheres"—President L. W. Riley, Linfield College.

The closing business session resulted in the election of the following officers: President, J. F. Dobbs, President Pacific University, Forest Grove; Vice-president, Edward L. Clark, Director Oregon Institute of Technology, Portland; Secretary-treasurer, F. G. Franklin, librarian Willamette University, Salem; Member State Board of Standardization, Leonard W. Riley, President Linfield College, McMinnville.

A resolution was passed urging the writing of all elementary history from the world standpoint, and asking that history teaching be made uniform in the lower grades throughout the world.

A committee on cooperation was appointed to propose ways in which the various colleges in the association can more actively cooperate in tasks in which they are all interested, such as, co-operative advertising, interchange of faculties, intercollegiate visitation, etc.

One of the delightful features of the conference this year was the music provided for each session by the Pacific College School of Music. Friday afternoon Professor Alexander Hull and Mrs. Eva Hummer Hull provided a delightful program of vocal music and selections for two pianos; Friday evening a half hour's program was provided by the Hulls and the faculty male quartet, who sang a double number; and Saturday morning Homer Hester and Lolita Hinshaw each sang a double number, all of which were greatly appreciated.

The next meeting of this association is to be held in Reed College. The conference has grown out of a conference of the presidents of the independent colleges of the state, but has gradually been enlarged until in recent years a large attendance of faculty members is earnestly sought. The colleges which belong to the association are: Eugene Bible University at Eugene, Albany College at Albany, Philomath College at Philomath, Willamette University at Salem, Linfield College at McMinnville, Pacific College at Newberg, Pacific University at Forest Grove, and Reed College and the Oregon Technology at Portland.

NATIONAL Y. W. SECRETARY SPEAKS AT COLLEGE CHAPEL

Marcia Seeber, national Y. W. C. A. secretary for the Seabeck Division, spoke to the students at the college chapel hour November 22. The main topic of her talk was regarding student life in a general way. The following is briefly the thought of her statements:

The students of today are a vital part of the world. The only way to come to the rich and full life is by entering into new experiences and by enlarging and increasing interests, and by seeking better to understand students other than immediate associates. If a life is to be creative it must also help make such a life possible for others.

Students all over the world are seeking to better world conditions by studying such problems as industrial conditions, racial relations, social conditions, and peace and war. Only by applying the teachings of Jesus can such questions be solved.

CECIL HINSHAW SPEAKS AT COLLEGE Y. M. C. A. MEETING

Cecil Hinshaw gave a very interesting talk on "What Sort of a God is Your God?" to the Y. M. C. A., November 30. He told of the different gods of Lust and War in the countries that he visited last summer on his trip around the Mediterranean and then asked the students if they were following the God of love, or what kind of a God is their God?

In Egypt in the "Tombs of Sacred Bulls" are embalmed bulls placed in granite tombs which people used to worship. The old Greek's ideas of god was a bunch of lustful super-men. In the Rock of Gibraltar are pigeon holes filled with guns, in the city of Gibraltar are soldiers and sailors everywhere, and in the bays of that region are battleships galore flying the British flags. Soldiers, everywhere in Italy, France, and England. A large part of the Mount of Olives close to Jerusalem is covered with the graves of soldiers. At the Dardenelles is a column erected to 100,000 soldiers killed there in the World War. In France are one dozen cemeteries reaching over the hills sometimes as far as the eye can see. America is more wealthy today than any other nation has ever been, and where did she get her wealth? Blood money! What sort of a God is it whom the Christian nations are worshipping?

Man ever since history began has been reaching out for the true god. First feeble bulls, next super-men, and now war or the true God of love, which? Are we worshipping that true God of love, he concluded. C. B.

PACIFIC ACADEMY LOSES HARD GAME TO CARLTON FIVE

The Pacific Academy boys journeyed to Carlton Friday evening to participate in a fast hard fought game, which ended in the academy boys getting the little end of a 31-13 score.

The young Quaker five played a fast, hard, fighting game, but could not seem to find the basket. The Carlton boys had the advantage in better team work, and being used to a big gym they were able to cover their territory to a better advantage.

The game was exciting throughout the entire period. Everyone felt that the academy played a good clean game, and although they lost, everyone was satisfied with the spirit of sportsmanship that was shown. B. T.
